Patty Hearst defense plan may center on lie testing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With her trial a week away, Patricia Hearst's attorneys today may try to introduce the results of a lie detector test to support her contention that death threats forced her to rob a bank, according to a published report.

Wayne Smith, an associate of defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, would not confirm or deny on Sunday the New York Daily News report.

"It's all being coordinated in San Francisco and will be released Monday," he said.

Smith also said the defense plans to file new motions to limit or prevent further interviews by Dr. Harry Kozol of Boston, a prosecution psychiatrist who Miss Hearst claims drove her to tears.

"The motions will be based on Kozol's background and why the prosecution selected him. I think you're going to see a lot of surprises," Smith said in a telephone interview from Boston.

State solons eye utility formula

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A swelling controversy over legislation that would change the way the state determines utility rates is expected to escalate on two fronts this week.

The bill will face critical amendments, beginning Tuesday in the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee.

Meanwhile, an impatient consumer group including the prime sponsor of the House bill, plans to take formal steps toward a statewide ballot vote on repeal of the current rate formula.

The House returns for floor action Tuesday with a vote on a bill that would permit townships to spend money promoting tourism. Across the Statehouse, the Senate has set a Tuesday vote on a Housepassed measure that would set criminal penalties for pirating record albums or tapes.

Rep. Dennis Mojtowski, D-74 Willoughby, sponsor of the bill to abolish the current Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) rate base formula, said he had learned that utility lobbyists would attempt to insert an alternate plan.

Hubert H. Humphrey, a non-candidate who many observers see leading the crowded field of Democratic candidates seeking their party's presidential nomination, is stepping up his political tempo.

Humphrey drew record crowds on a weekend Missouri tour that comes on the threshold of Iowa's first steps to select delegates to the 1976 nominating conventions. That begins tonight; the first state primary will be New Hampshire's on Feb. 24.

Meanwhile, four announced hopefuls for the Democrats' top spot pointed to unemployment as a key issue to score with the voters. In a Sunday television appearance, the four called for guarantees of jobs for all.

Ex-AEC chief fears atom proliferation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission today urged that the United States immediately halt exports of all nuclear devices and material to reduce the dangers of worldwide nuclear proliferation.

David E. Lilienthal, who served as the AEC's first chairman after it was formed in 1947, told a Senate subcommittee that "we, the United States, our public agencies and our private manufacturers, have been and are the world's major proliferators" of nuclear technology.

He contended that despite American efforts to control the spread of nuclear weapons and materials which could be diverted to weapons use, "the tragic fact is that the atomic arms race is today proceeding at a more furious and a more insane pace than ever."

"Proliferation of capabilities to produce nuclear weapons of mass destruction is reaching terrifying proportions," said Lilienthal, now head of Development and Resources Corp. based in New York.

He said that "we should not be overly impressed by the morally indefensible doctrine that if we do not continue to supply these potentially deadly materials and this technology, other countries will do so."

Lilienthal conceded that it would be difficult to predict fully just what would result from a U.S. embargo on export of nuclear technology, facilities and materials.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslems called for all-out holy war against the Christians in Lebanon today in the wake of Moslem Premier Rashid Karami's resignation.

"Believers are called upon by their religious duty to rise in arms for jihad (holy war) to defend their attacked brethren," the muzzains shouted through bullhorns at dawn from their needle-shaped minarets.

Loudspeaker vans toured Moslem quarters of Beirut repeating the call.

The News reported in today's editions that Miss Hearst's attorneys are expected to file an application with U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter seeking to have the results of the polygraph tests admitted as evidence. Such tests are usually not admissible as evidence in court cases.

Defense attorney Al Johnson would not comment on the report — "On the eve of the trial, to say that kind of test was given would not be right because of the inference the public would draw."

The News quoted New York City sources close to the defense as saying the tests were conducted over three days by four experts — Charles Zimmerman of the Scientific Security Co. of Boston; Drs. Gordon Barland and David Ruskin of the University of Utah; and Dr. Stanley Abrams of Kaiser Hospital in Portland, Ore.

Dr. Barland declined comment, and the others were not immediately reachable.

He described the utility proposal as a "fair value" formula that would use economic indicators to provide for inflation adjustments in the rate base. The bill as written calls for an "original cost" method that would set rates based on a gas, electric or telephone company's investment in plants and equipment, less depreciation.

The RCN formula in effect now permits utilities to calculate how much it would cost to replace plants and equipment at today's market value when they apply to the state for a rate hike. Consumer advocates have protested that RCN is unfair to utility users and offers utilities potential windfall profits.

Committee chairman William E. Hing, D-96 New Philadelphia, said a plan to use both a fair value inflation formula and the original cost plan on a 50-50 basis in the rate base had been discussed.

However, Hing said he was not yet ready to accept such a formula. "I think original cost (alone) is something I can live with," he said.

And California was the major scene of the Republican battle, with the campaign managers for President Ford and challenger Ronald Reagan each predicting his man will triumph in the early primaries.

Humphrey, the man who isn't running but says he will accept the nomination if it is offered to him by the convention, took swipes at both Ford and Reagan during his Midwest swing.

The senator from Minnesota, appearing at an affair to honor retiring Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in Columbia, Mo., Saturday, drew 1,800 faithful, which some claimed set a record for Democrats in the state.

The 64-year-old former vice president also attended a Sunday brunch for Symington's son, Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., and later

"But what is the alternative?" he asked. "Our experience in international negotiations on the whole has so far been a sad one. If we show that we mean business, it may very well improve."

The Senate government operations subcommittee, chaired by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, is considering legislation which would tighten controls on U.S. nuclear exports.

Also testifying before the panel was Hans A. Bethe, professor emeritus of physics at Cornell University and winner of the Nobel prize in 1967.

Bethe, who headed the theoretical physics division at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory during World War II development of the atomic bomb, called for a prohibition on sale of so-called fast breeder reactors to countries not already possessing nuclear technology.

Breeder reactors, producing more nuclear fuel than they consume, generate considerable amounts of plutonium which can be diverted relatively easily for use in atomic weapons.

Bethe also urged a ban on export of sophisticated facilities for separation of various isotopes of uranium and plutonium — or even the blueprints for such facilities.

However, the Nobel laureate did not advocate a total embargo on all nuclear exports, such as conventional power reactors.

All-out holy war urged in Lebanon

Fierce fighting between rightwing Christians and leftist Lebanese Moslems and Palestinians raged through the night in Beirut and areas outside the capital. Police reported 102 more persons killed in the city and its suburbs.

Karami resigned after the warring factions ignored another of his cease-fire calls. Local papers said President Suleiman Franjeh was planning to form a military government to replace Karami's six-man coalition of Christian and Moslems.

Franjeh installed a military government last May, a month after the civil war started, but pressure from most of the civilian politicians forced it to resign after three days. Another military government probably would run into the same opposition, particularly from the Moslems, since most of the officers are Christians.

Karami said in a broadcast he was passing responsibility for the country to the Christian president "to take whatever steps he thinks proper."

Karami, a 53-year-old millionaire, became premier in June with a pledge to end the civil war. He negotiated more than a dozen cease-fires, but all collapsed, and the nine-month death toll is now estimated at more than 8,500.

Police reported house-to-house fighting throughout the night in a fire-gutted Moslem pocket in eastern Beirut and a besieged Christian enclave in south Lebanon.

The whole of Beirut was illuminated during the night by huge fires in the Moslem slum area of Karantina, on the eastern edge of the city's harbor.

The district has been under attack by right-wing Christian militiamen for more than 24 hours.

drew 1,700 to a Kansas City forum sponsored by Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo. Aides said that was a record for the meetings that were begun three years ago.

Humphrey said Reagan's statement that citizens unhappy with a state's management can "vote with your feet" by moving away is "the most callous, brutal, political statement I've heard in the 20th century."

Of Ford's policy in Angola, Humphrey said, "If we can't learn the lesson we had in Vietnam, we're too dumb to be a world power."

The California Republican campaigning was primarily waged in Sacramento by campaign managers addressing GOP volunteers. Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, who heads the Reagan effort, said there is "no major difference" in political philosophy between Ford and Reagan.

But Reagan has the unique ability to go over the heads of Democrats in control of Congress and use television to get his views to the public, Laxalt maintained.

Howard Callaway, Ford's chairman, told the same group that Ford's State of the Union address tonight will make sense to the American people. Both Callaway and Laxalt predicted victory in the same early Republican primaries.

Four announced Democrats met on NBC's "Meet the Press," where Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen declared, "I'd rather spend taxpayers' money for someone working than not working."

Echoing support for guaranteed jobs were Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Sanford, in his first appearance since being hospitalized for chest pains last weekend, said his health is excellent following a week's rest. He called for action to improve neighborhoods through housing and rent subsidies.

Jackson said he feels detente should be a major issue, with the U.S. using its economic power to keep the Soviets out of Angola. He called for use of U.S. grain sales, technology exports and other economic tactics to squeeze the Russians out of the African state.

Udall said he would seek to bring the races together to work out a solution to school desegregation busing. He criticized Jackson's plan that three-judge panels be required before busing can be imposed, noting that all busing orders have been appealed to such panels and have been upheld.

The nation's political focus turns to Iowa tonight as 85,000 Democrats and Republicans start the task of choosing candidates for president. Caucuses — meetings in each of the state's 2,617 voting precincts — will be held for voters to make known their preferences.

State aides for all say that no clear-cut choice is likely to emerge. "Our telephone surveys are turning up a large uncommitted vote — 50 to 60 percent," said the Iowa leader for Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana.

If the polls and the political pundits are correct, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Bayh will gather the most support in the caucuses, with the other Democrats clustered in the "pack."

Carter, Bayh, Udall, Jackson, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Sargent Shriver of Maryland have expended a total of 80 days and about $125,000 stumping in Iowa in the last four months.

In Miami campaigning for the March 9 Florida primary, Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp sharply criticized Ford's proposal to raise Social Security taxes as a move that will "take billions of dollars" from working people and be a boon for the rich.

"The President doesn't seem to understand that almost all money taken from the pockets of low-income families is money withdrawn from the purchasing power and has immediate negative impact on the economy," the Democratic governor said.

An aide to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, speaking of the March 23 North Carolina primary, said, "Our approach is one of increasing our margin of victory — we know we're going to win."

others are present within a bird that determine how many points out of a hundred that he will receive at a competition.

House raises particular types of budgies known as light greens, grey greens, sky blues, greys, and cinamons.

After he has selected a young bird possessing good hereditary characteristics, House must then train the bird to perform well during its judging in a show. To keep the bird in a steady, unflinching posture on its perch, House works daily with the trainee, talking to it, and using a stick to keep it in one position. During a show, the bird must be able to withstand constant proddings by a judge who marks off points at the sign of a flaw.

To make sure that a championship budgie will not be loaned out for use by another owner, enabling him to win illegally, each bird after only a few days of life is required to have a closed, seamless, reinforced aluminum band attached around its leg. The band identifies the owner by means of a particular ABS coding.

House has a few ideas on how he will conduct his hobby in the future. He plans to expand the operation by enlarging his aviary to include 350 budgerigars, and he also wants to do more extensive judging.

House is also a championship rabbit breeder and has won many competitions in this area. His "hare raising" has won him prizes from all over the nation, but this is another story and a long one at that.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, churning in the midst of profit taking pressures.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.50 at 928.13, but gainers maintained a 5-3 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted a favorable response to continued declines in some key interest rates. But they said that influence was being offset by more of the profit taking that interrupted the market's rally several times last week.

Gulf & Western Industries was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 22 3/4 in a 100,000-share block trade.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .04 to 51.37. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 92.32.

Volume on the Big Board continued heavy.

Butz sees rural backing for President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz says he thinks President Ford's reelection prospects in the farm belt are good.

Butz said he thinks Ford's action interrupting wheat sales to Russia last summer turned out positively for agriculture.

Butz, speaking at a news conference prior to a fund-raising dinner for U.S. Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, said he realizes the nation's farmers are still upset over Ford's action, but noted: "We had no assurances the crop was going to be good," when the embargo was imposed.

Latta said over the weekend that he and Republican leaders from Ohio's Fifth Congressional District were withholding endorsement of Ford to see what develops in the New Hampshire presidential primary.

The Russians had purchased 9.8 million tons of wheat from the 1975 crop prior to the Ford-ordered embargo, Butz said, and have purchased an additional 6.3 million tons since it was lifted.

Butz was optimistic regarding the 1976 farm picture, citing "a good growing market and good export prospects."

Butz said "great turnarounds" have been made in agriculture in the last four years, citing reduction in money spent on storing crops and an increase in net farm income from $17.5 billion in 1970 to an expected $25 billion in 1976, and less government involvement in farm operations.

Concerning the possible abandonment of numerous rail lines under the U.S. Railway Association's Conrail proposal and the effect on grain transportation, Butz expressed concern for the effect on farmers, but said "some rail lines should be abandoned" if the country is to have "a viable rail system."

Bleak financial outlook pictured

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of the financial health of the states indicates that most states "face an increasingly bleak fiscal future" with spending increases outpacing increases in income.

"With few exceptions, state surpluses of previous years are gone," a statement with the survey reported. "Governors and legislatures, many of whom have already taken dramatic belt-tightening measures, are faced with further tax increases or spending cuts or both to keep their budgets in balance."

The 37-state survey found that estimated revenue for fiscal 1976 will increase 8 per cent. Expenditures are expected to reach $71 billion and revenue will total only $67.7 billion.

"This appears to indicate that the effects of the recession more than offset the revenue growth attributable to inflation," the report said.

"When you don't have the money, you have to raise taxes or cut spending, just when the recession demands that you do the reverse," said James Martin, deputy director of the National Governors Conference, which sponsored the survey.

In the statement, the organization said the study also indicated:

—The fiscal picture in energy-producing and agricultural states is more favorable than in heavily industrial states, where unemployment has been high.

—Welfare and Medicaid payments, driven up by recession, brought about major spending increases in fiscal 1975.

—The rate of increase in state government expenditures has been leveled by budget-balancing efforts of governors and legislatures in the current fiscal year.

—States are spending dollars earmarked for capital expenditures on current operations.

"To the extent that states had surpluses in any real sense, they have virtually disappeared," the statement said.

Random is the word

Let's just run through the alphabet a minute to see in what sequence the candidates' names will appear on the ballot: K, Q, U, B, C, N, L... and so on. That sequence of letters, continuing in similarly unpredictable fashion, will determine the order of candidates' names in California city elections on March 2. "Unpredictable" is the operative word. This is a random alphabet, drawn from a box by the secretary of state to apply to the March 2 elections only. The process will be repeated for later elections.

This new dispensation is the result of a California Supreme Court ruling that ballot placement on the basis of the regular alphabet did not meet the law's randomness test. Hence, new alphabets from time to time.

Silly as it may sound, this is a sensible idea. Though the problem is not of crucial importance, under some circumstances placement on the ballot may have a significant effect. The random alphabet system is fair to all candidates.

A WORD EDGEWISE... By John P. Roche

The Boston school war

One of the fundamental rules for exercising authority is not to push your luck. Every smart politician instinctively realizes that - whatever his theoretical power may be - there is a time to behave with prudence. I vividly recall President Johnson exhorting a Cabinet Secretary to Harry McPherson and me: He set out the bureaucrat's deficiencies, discussed his ancestry, and then (having gotten some therapy) said mournfully, "What am I gonna do? Of course, I can fire him, but that would give me more problems than I got now. Herblock would have me nailing him to a cross."

School War strike me as a case in point. My position on busing as expressed here and elsewhere over the past decades is somewhat eccentric. I have no time for all that sentimental nonsense about the charming neighborhood school. Our daughter had a longer bus ride twice a day than anyone in Boston to get to our friendly community school. The important consideration, however, was that when she climbed off the bus there was a first-class public school at her disposal. In short, busing can be a vital component in education, but it is pointless to ship youngsters back and forth from one lousy school to another.

BEFORE THE STORM

The situation in Boston before Federal District Judge W. Arthur Garrity began hurling his thunderbolts was roughly this: In several working-class neighborhoods with distinct ethnic characteristics (black, Irish, Italian) there were inferior schools. Segregation was de facto, not created by law, and it is fair to say that it did not keep the School Committee awake nights. Back when civil rights was the "in" thing, the legislature had made a novena, passing a racial imbalance law - but this was purely cosmetic piety. Nobody expected anyone to try to enforce it.

This indifference set the stage for Judge Garrity's initial moves, which struck me as thoroughly justified. In effect he zinged the School Committee and by doing so brought the whole question of public education in Boston into public focus. In other words the segregation questions could have been the instrument for a thorough reappraisal of the quality of the Boston schools. Instead the School Committee, in what amounted to sheer demagoguery, started denouncing the judge and all the other outsiders who were trying to destroy the spirit of community.

In fairness to Garrity, he gave them plenty of time to come up with an adequate proposal (which in my judgment should have included closing both South Boston and Roxbury high schools on their educational demerits), but the persistent stalling obviously got on his judicial nerves. At just about this time anyone with good political radar would have sat back and waited a while - the citizens of Boston are not Yahoos, and divisions of opinion on the school problem were emerging with increasing emphasis on the need for quality.

FORGOTTEN EDUCATION.

But the judge blew his cool and, to make a long story short, launched a policy of escalation which has now reached the point where he may end up personally hiring headmasters, teachers and custodians in the Boston school system. The newly elected School Committee has not been given any opportunity to show whether it would break with the past traditions and cooperate. The worst fact of all is that what should be the issue - education - has now vanished from the confrontation. What is now the order of the day is, "Who runs this place? The elected officials, or some appointed judge with life tenure, no political responsibility and a cozy home in the suburbs?"

There can be no winners in this struggle, but plenty of losers, first among whom are the kids of Boston - black, white, or polka dot. Second, of course, the authority of the judiciary has been undermined by what the Boston Herald (which had previously supported him) called Garrity's wild "overkill." Third, all sorts of tribal impulses, most of which have fortunately been muted over the years, have gotten a new lease on life. Finally, it is clear to me that as long as Judge Garrity exercises jurisdiction there can be no solution, only a blood feud. In the interests of all parties, he should step aside and ask the U.S. Circuit Court to replace him with a judge who has not been identified with the issue, has no scars, and can bring focus back to education.

Ohio Perspective

Consumer protection legislation pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The man on the other end of the telephone line was a debt collector, and he was out to collect his money any way he could.

"I'm going to get you," he said. "I'm going to put you away."

A sharp, loud noise resembling gunfire sounded.

"Did you hear that?" the collector asked the terrified debtor, "That's your warning."

That exchange was one example cited by Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Tongren, chief of the consumer crimes and frauds division, of why Ohio's four-year-old Consumer Sales Practices Act needs strengthening.

Under the law as it now stands, Tongren said, such harrassing tactics are legal.

Ohio's present consumer law forbids "deceptive" practices. But, Tongren said, "There have been many practices which are 'unfair' but not necessarily 'deceptive.' Numerous consumer complaints have been received regarding debt collection practices which fall within this category."

In another case, he said, a woman informed a debt collector she was unable to make payments because she was on welfare and ill. The collector began calling her hospital room following her surgery.

But he said the problem applies to more than debt collectors. One example in Ohio is the "missing heir" scheme.

A Mrs. Douglas received a letter telling her that for $19, she could receive information on the inheritance of another Douglas who might be related, Tongren said.

"The letter failed to inform the consumer that thousands of other Douglasses received the same pitch, and that she could obtain the same information for free by contacting the Unclaimed Funds Agency," Tongren said.

Tongren gave the examples while testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering legislation to expand the consumer sales act to include unfair practices.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Man says marriages would last longer if arranged

DEAR ABBY: You're wrong when you say that a person can't learn to love someone.

In the old country, the marriages were arranged by the parents or a matchmaker, and those marriages were more solid than our modern marriages are.

In China, Japan and India, marriages were arranged while the children were growing up. The couple learned to love each other, and you never heard of divorce.

Here, a couple of dizzy kids decide they're "in love", and before you know it, they're married. Then they have a baby or two, and discover that their "love" has worn off, so their parents have to help raise the babies while they get a divorce and start looking around for somebody else to fall in love with.

I'll bet if we went back to the old system of arranged marriages, we'd have a lot fewer divorces.

And by the way, in case you think I'm an old foggy, I'm only 28.

SINGLE AND STRAIGHT

DEAR SINGLE: A return to "arranged marriages" as a move to reduce divorce is as plausible and logical as returning to mutilation and torture to cut back crime. Both are remnants of a grisly past, imperfectly remembered.

DEAR ABBY: There must be thousands of women in my position, so if you have an answer for me, please print it and help all of us.

I am married to a man who has children by a previous marriage. I love his children and they love me. The problem is their mother.

On occasions such as first communions, birthdays, weddings, etc., she makes it clear to me that I am not welcome, and that if I attend, she will leave.

Naturally, I stay away. When the children ask me why I didn't come I say that I was "ill". I don't want to tell them the truth because it would only cause trouble.

Maybe lots of women will see themselves in this letter and decide to be big enough to let their husband's present wives share in their children's celebrations. We love their children, too.

EXCLUDED

DEAR EXCLUDED: Here's your letter. I hope it helps.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a good-natured mother-in-law who insists on cooking a large elaborate dinner on holidays for the same crowd year after year? I begged her to let me cook Thanksgiving dinner this year and she downright refused! I love to entertain and she knows it, but she gave me the excuse of "you don't have enough room" and "I have more time than you" (since I work.)

She is the best mother-in-law a girl could ever ask for, in more ways than one, but I think this is going too far. I would love to give her a relaxing holiday just once so she could enjoy herself also. Maybe she does not think I could handle it (my husband and I have been married for one and a half years) but I've entertained as many as 25 before!

Abby, I know she reads your column faithfully so maybe you could suggest that enough is enough?

MOUSE

DEAR MOUSE: Your mother-in-law obviously "enjoys herself" being in command of the holiday feasts.

Demonstrate your dinner skills for others and let your "good-natured" mother-in-law have a good time-hr way.

Counselor's corner

January marks the end of the first semester on Friday, Jan. 23, and the commencement of the second semester on Jan. 26. All students must be sure to meet each of their individual requirements and goals.

Seniors who are college-bound and interested in financial aid should have all financial aid applications finalized by the end of January. The Counselors' Office has now received the O.I.G. (Ohio Instructional Grant) applications, and should receive the B.E.O.G. (Basic Educational Opportunity Grant) at any time now.

Especially important at this time are the financial aid applications from the specific college. For example, if a student applying to the Ohio State University for September of 1976 has completed the Parents Confidential Statement, O.I.G., and B.E.O.G., but has not obtained and completed a financial aid application from the Ohio State University itself, the student will be ineligible for some types of financial aids. ### A poem

Last night as I climbed in bed
I began to think of all the things ahead.
I realized how my life had just begun,
And all the things I could possibly get done.

I really do feel,
That you ought to realize,
Just what you're here for,
And where your future lies.

Remember your high school years,
Try to make the best of them,
For they're only here once,
And you'll wish they were here again.

Take your studies seriously,
Don't be a fool.
Cause believe me you'll regret it,
Trying to be cool.

Accept responsibility now,
While you're still in school,
Because it's twice as hard after you get out.

To learn the Golden Rule.

Take my word, friend,
You'll see.
It's easier to learn now,
Than after you're eighteen.

Chopped beef is ingredient

CHOPPED BEEF with onion and green pepper tops a casserole that layers it with chili-flavored sauce, noodles.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

The theme is chopped beef. Very versatile and relatively economical, it lends itself to many treatments. Let today's recipes get you thinking about variations on this budget-wise theme: Chopped beef sparked with chili powder and served with cheese-flavored noodles adds up to a one-dish dinner that's unusually good:

CHILI BEEF AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons corn oil
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
1 pound ground beef
1 (1 pound, 13-ounce) can tomatoes
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 (8-ounce) package wide noodles, cooked and drained
1 cup shredded cheese

In large skillet, heat corn oil over medium heat. Add onion and green pepper; saute, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add beef; brown lightly. Drain 1/4 cup tomato liquid and reserve. Add tomatoes and remaining tomato liquid, corn syrup, salt, chili powder, pepper and bay leaf to beef mixture. Bring to boil; cover and simmer 15 minutes.

Mix cornstarch with remaining 1/4 cup tomato liquid. Stir into mixture in skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute.

Arrange alternate layers of noodles, sauce and cheese in 11 3/4 x 7 1/2 x 1 3/4-inch baking dish. Bake in 350 F. oven 30 minutes or until hot and bubble.

Makes 6 servings.

Here's another way to combine beef and noodles. This time out, the beef is browned, then simmered in wine and bouillon, when it's combined with cooked noodles, and sour cream is mixed in, making a very delicious dish:

BEEF-Noodle SKILLET WITH SOUR CREAM

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 pound lean ground beef
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 garlic clove, minced
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup dry red wine
Juice of 1 lemon
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 cup water
2 cups wide noodles, uncooked
Salt and pepper
1 cup dairy sour cream
Paprika

Melt butter; add beef, onion, garlic and mushrooms. Saute, stirring with fork to break up meat, until beef loses its red color. Add wine, lemon juice, bouillon cubes, and water. Simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Add noodles, cover, and simmer for 15 minutes, adding more water if necessary. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir in sour cream and heat over low flame. Sprinkle with paprika.

Makes 4 servings.

Nika Hazelton, the grande dame of cuisine, has a cooking rule from which she never deviates: Every meal, she says, should have one dish for which the cook is praised. In her new book with Marjorie Blanchard, "What Shall I Cook Today?" (Bobbs-Merrill), Nika suggests menus and recipes for every day of the year. Among the dishes she puts in the sure-to-bring-praise category is this soufflé with chopped beef. She suggests you serve a molded vegetable salad and, for dessert, canned peaches and cupcakes with:

William Horney Chapter, DAR, observes 50th anniversary

William Horney Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Jeffersonville, observed its 50th anniversary with a noon luncheon with guests, on Jan. 14 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, with 80 members and guests presents. A prelude of organ selections by Mrs. Kenneth Spahr preceded the luncheon.

As each registered, she received a program book with as attractive '50' and motifs in gold on the front cover, and a pin-on with '50' in gold on a circle of white net with blue ribbon on the back. Lovely corsages of yellow roses were presented to the state regent, Mrs. Merritt S. Huber, and Mrs. Louis Ulen, Regent. The past regents received corsages of a single yellow carnation.

A cordial welcome was extended to the members of the Chapter and guests by the Rev. Eugene Griffith, pastor of the church.

Prior to the luncheon, the group passed through the receiving line to greet State Regent, Mrs. Huber and distinguished state officers.

Places were found in the dining room at tables centered with lovely lanterns and gold candles. African violets were placed at vantage spots on the tables. The guest table was centered with a two-tiered white birthday cake trimmed with yellow roses, and a gold '50' topped the cake. The Rev. Mr. Griffith gave the invocation.

Following the three course luncheon, the ladies assembled in the sanctuary for the chapter meeting. Richard Glass, music director, introduced the Miami Trace Folksingers, who sang "Grand Old Flag" by George Cohan.

Mrs. Louis Ulen, Regent, opened the meeting in ritualistic form, assisted by Mrs. Harold Cline, chaplain, protem, in the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. G. Max Morrow. Mrs. Otis Thompson, flag chairman, led the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Earl Glass led the first stanza of the National Anthem, with Mrs. Spahr at the organ. The American's Creed was read by the group.

The distinguished guests were recognized by the Regent, and introduced, stating her office in the Ohio Society, DAR. Members and guests were given warm greetings.

Miss Helen Fuels, national defense chairman, read, "TV-Fourth Branch of Government?" by Alice Widener, from the National Defender, NSDAR. Mrs. Earl Glass, historian, gave a brief history of the chapter's 50 years.

Mrs. W. W. Williams and Mrs. E. F. McKee, charter members, were introduced and presented corsages of yellow roses and their fifty-year pins. Mrs. Robert Rhodes of Fort Myers, Fla., also a charter member, was unable to attend. Mrs. Howard Burnett, Sr., accepted the pin for her. Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, a past regent, made the presentations.

Mrs. Merritt S. Huber, state regent, the guest speaker, spoke of "The Activities of the Daughters." Mrs. Huber brought greetings to the chapter on the occasion of their 50th anniversary from the Ohio Society, DAR.

The honorary state regents and other honored guests spoke briefly, congratulating the chapter. The Regent expressed her appreciation to all who had assisted her in making the special day most memorable, and adjourned the meeting.

An arrangement of red and white carnation, in a blue container, was sent to the chapter from Mrs. W. W. Williams. A bouquet of yellow roses was sent in memory of the deceased members. These roses were later given to the members present.

Guests present were Mrs. Wallace B. Hise of Cleveland; Mrs. Harvey Minton of Worthington; and Mrs. Charles Petree of Columbus, honorary state regents; Mrs. Merritt Huber, of Bettsville, state regent; Mrs. C. ## Sanford pushes jobs-for-all plan

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford is pushing a jobs-for-all proposal as the keynote of his Democratic presidential campaign, saying the government should provide work for any American who can't find it otherwise.

But he acknowledges he'd have to settle for a more limited, less expensive plan at the outset. And he does not have specifics on how he would finance even a limited jobs program, although he says budget deficits are inevitable until full employment is reached.

Sanford, 58, was called one of the first of the New South governors when he steered a moderate course for North Carolina in the racially turbulent days of 1961-65. State law barred a second term.

Four years later, he became president of Duke University. He kept his hand in Democratic politics and staged a late and unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination in 1972.

Sanford has characterized his full employment policy as a radical alternative to the "immoral and counterproductive" policies of the Ford administration, which he accuses of trying to fight inflation by putting people out of work.

He believes that full employment — a job for everyone who wants to work — should be the overriding goal of federal economic policy. He says he favors making government the employer of last resort, using federal grants to state and local governments for projects like railroad bed improvements and environmental protection construction.

When pressed for specifics, Sanford said his initial goal would be more modest than such a sweeping guarantee of jobs. He said he would ask for $7 billion in federal job money in the first year, which he estimated would provide jobs for about 10 per cent of those currently unemployed.

(The Labor Department reported an unemployment rate of 8.3 per cent during December, with 7.8 million Americans unable to find jobs. Ten per cent of this figure is 780,000 and $7 billion works out to an expenditure of almost $9,000 per person, a figure economists generally say is reasonable for the cost of creating a job.)

Sanford did not say how he proposes to come up with the $7 billion, but he said that federal budget deficits are inevitable until there is full employment.

He also said the defense budget could be pared. Sanford thinks $15 billion could have been cut from the President Ford's recommended defense budget for fiscal 1976. Sanford said the cuts could be made "not by drastically eliminating programs, but going through it line by line and cutting out the fat."

(Ford proposed a defense budget of $94 billion; Congress has not yet approved a final defense spending plan, but legislation now pending provides for cuts of about $7.5 billion in Ford's requests, half of what Sanford would have cut.)

Man freed by mistake?

CLEVELAND (AP)—Convicted safecracker Phillip Christopher is on his way back to prison while federal parole authorities try to find out how he got out of prison after serving only three years for his part in a $7 million burglary of a California bank.

Christopher, who was living at a Salvation Army halfway house and working at the Board of Elections, was picked up by federal marshals Saturday after details of his release pending parole were published in a newspaper story.

Maurice Sigler, chairman of the U.S. Parole Board in Washington, said the board will review the case and, if necessary, investigate to see why Christopher was paroled so early.

The Plain Dealer quoted Sigler as saying, "We've apparently made a mistake" and that he could not understand how, with a 20-year-sentence, Christopher could be paroled after three years.

The burglary at the United California Bank branch four years ago was the biggest ever recorded in this country. Officials say $3.5 million of the loot in bonds, cash and jewels still has not been recovered, and they believe Christopher knows where it is.

The average physician in Ohio around the middle 1800's had to be satisfied with a quarter or a half dollar for a visit.

Friends rally to rebuild home

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — John Payne may not have much money, but he's rich in friends.

Two weeks ago, the Tipp City resident lost just about everything he owned when his home was burned out by a fire.

But his friends rallied to his aid and have begun to rebuild the single-story frame home.

Robert Penrod, of Piqua, one of Payne's fellow workers at the A.O. Smith Co. in Tipp City, and about 60 volunteers, most them Smith employees, have pledged to rebuild Payne's home.

"John didn't have a penny's worth of fire insurance and he's disabled, so that's when you need friends," said Penrod, who is a part-time licensed contractor.

Payne, who has a wife and two daughters, is on sick leave from Smith. Penrod said about 15 suppliers from all over the area are donating free materials to the project, which he estimated would cost about $10,000.

Harris urges breakup of big companies

BY MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris advocates price controls on the oil, steel and automobile industries as the way to fight inflation while he seeks to break up the nation's largest corporations.

Harris contends that America's largest industries have monopolistic power, and he says he would seek to split them apart for the sake of economic competition and to curb consumer prices. He claims that heightened competition would put to work marketplace forces that would curb prices and lead to more production and more jobs.

Harris proposes a mix of antitrust action, government price ceilings and public service jobs as his answer to economic woes. The plan is couched in general, theoretical terms. It does not include specific revenue-raising proposals to cover projected spending to create jobs or the other economic programs he wants to introduce.

Harris said if he becomes president he will ask Congress for the power to control prices — but not wages.

Government figures show that between November 1973 and November 1975 the consumer price index rose by 20.3 per cent while average hourly wages went up 16.1 per cent.

Harris claims those statistics are evidence that wage controls would not be needed.

Yet under his plan, there would be no limits on what unions could demand in wages from industries whose prices would be government-controlled.

The former Oklahoma senator, making his second bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, also said if he succeeds, his administration would go after "shared monopolies" by challenging them in court and by seeking new antitrust laws.

He defines a shared monopoly as a situation in which four or fewer corporations control 70 per cent of an industry.

He also attacks oil companies that control gasoline production from the well to the service station pump. Harris contends if different companies controlled the various stages of production, the resulting competition would inevitably drive down prices.

The oil companies would also be prevented from controlling production of competing fuels such as coal, Harris said, and that also would tend to lower prices.

Harris said in an interview that there should be a $28-billion tax cut in 1976, but only for individual taxpayers, not for businesses.

That would be $15 billion higher than the break individual taxpayers are getting this year. Harris said he would offset the cut by imposing higher taxes on large corporations and on the wealthy, but neither he nor his advisers could spell out specific measures or their potential revenues.

"We have one-third idle plant capacity, primarily because consumers don't have enough money," Harris said. "A tax cut is particularly necessary now to offset new price increases which otherwise would take money out of the economy and further slow recovery."

Harris said temporary price controls on some industries are needed until price competition is restored.

"In our economy," he said, "unemployment does not tend to bring down prices, it tends to force them up.... Because of monopoly control, industries such as the automobile industry are allowed to act to the detriment of both workers and consumers and, in the face of falling demand, lay off workers and reduce production, but make up for lost profits by increased prices consumers must pay."

Harris said his restructuring of the economy would eventually lower the unemployment rate. He says that as the economy reacts to increased competition, prices will decline. In addition, he says, consumers will have more spending money in hand because of tax cuts. Harris says increased demand for lower priced consumer products will lead to increased production and more jobs.

For those still unemployed, Harris would establish a permanent reservoir of two million locally controlled public service jobs in health care, day care centers, transportation and environmental clean-up projects at an estimated annual cost of $6.4 billion.

"We ought to commit the country to full employment and mean it," he said. The Harris economic plan is without specific proposals for financing the measures he wants to take.

For example, Harris has no proposal for financing his jobs program, saying only that revenues will increase when the economy picks up.

Harris maintains that over-all there would be little net increase in federal expenses under his proposals because higher spending would be offset by increased tax revenues as the economic situation improves and people get back to work.

That is a common theme among Democrats, who base it on estimates that each one percent of unemployment costs the government $15 billion in lost revenues and increased social welfare costs.

But that theme remains a theory without proof in practice.

A $20,000 combine may harvest beans and corn efficiently, but it also represents a large investment that is now exempt from personal tax. Ohio farmers save $40 million yearly as a result of Farm Bureau's efforts.

Farm truck license, originally initiated by Farm Bureau, saves farmers nearly one half of the cost of a commercial license for farm trucks. An $8,000 lb. commercial truck license costs $152 and a farm license costs only $80. You save $72.

2
Farmers save nearly $4 an acre in state sales tax on production supplies for corn. This could mean a savings of nearly a hundred dollars on 25 acres.

3
Farmers save various amounts on real estate taxes, but that savings is even more because of the 10 per cent roll back. On a former $1,600 tax bill that savings would be $160.

4
The agricultural appraisal provision saves many farmers over $1,000 a year. One Wood County farmer in a total agricultural area saved $940 on his 139 acre farm. His land was valued at $1,137 an acre, but after being appraised at agricultural value he was taxed on a $658 value per acre. Many farmers own land appraised in excess of $3,000, and for them the agricultural appraisal provision will mean a great savings. Farm Bureau led the way on this issue.

5
County law enforcement personnel say there are fewer crimes committed on farms with Farm Bureau's $500 property protection service signs posted. We'll let you put a value on reducing the chances of a thief stealing your property.

6
Ohio farmers save about $120 annually in personal property tax on a $8,000 tractor. At the time of original purchase, $320 in state sales tax was also saved, because Farm Bureau went to bat for its members.

7
The agricultural gas tax exemption remains important to Ohio agriculture. A farmer using 2,000 gallons of gasoline could receive a refund of $140. Federal tax credit on the same amount would total $80. With sky-rocketing fuel costs every penny saved helps.

8
Personal property tax savings on a 35 head dairy herd amounts to more than $200 annually. Farm Bureau played a key role in eliminating the personal property tax.

You benefit many times the cost of your Farm Bureau membership dues. Farm Bureau is continually working in the legislature to make your money go further.

Award presented at annual meeting

Soil, water district 'superior'

The Fayette County Soil and Water Conservation District was awarded the rating of superior in the 1975 Ohio Federation of Soil and Water Conservation Districts distinctive service awards program.

Edgar Agle, chairman of the Fayette County Soil and Water Conservation District, accepted the award on behalf of the local district during the federation's 33rd annual meeting in Columbus held Jan. 13-15.

The Fayette County district is governed by Agle, chairman; Richard Carson, vice chairman; William Dunn, secretary; James Waddle, fiscal agent, and John Peterson, education chairman, who are elected locally and have the responsibility of determining the kinds and extent of technical services and educational activities carried out in the district.

Soil and Water Conservation District employees Vincent Chrisman, district

aide, and Mrs. Barbara Garringer, district secretary; Soil Conservation Service employees Lee Cleland and Leonard Watts and Fayette County Agricultural Extension agent John Gruber assist the district supervisors in providing technical conservation planning assistance and conservation education programs to county residents, units of government, and local organizations.

All of Ohio's 88 districts participated in the contest with 71 receiving superior ratings; 14 ranking as excellent and three receiving good ratings. The program is designed to permit yearly evaluations of the local program by supervisors.

NEW YORK (AP) — We may never be sure whether it was by design or by accident, but the President's State of the Union Message coincides with a spate of encouraging news about the economy.

Over the past few months, conditions have been gradually improving, and the public is aware of it. Strong retail sales in December were to a great extent an expression of returning confidence.

Wholesale prices actually fell in December. The prime interest rate is falling. It is now under 7 per cent and headed downward. The rate of inflation has tended to slow. More people are at work in recent weeks.

Economists are inclined to say that this is just how things were planned. Government economists especially will be inclined to take credit, claiming this was their script for the past year or more.

And, indeed, it is true that if you look back at the forecasts made a year ago you will see that many of them were right on the mark. Then you may recall, however, how lamentably inaccurate was their record in prior years.

It remains a question, therefore, whether the President can convince the people that the economy is responding solely to the perception and shrewd guidance of the Ford administration.

Regardless, Ford certainly can enjoy the results. The economic condition is better than it was six months ago, and it does show some signs of further improvement. Things are breaking for the President.

The real test still is ahead, however, and that is to keep the recovery on track. Strong as those economic signals might seem, there are weaknesses present, there are obstacles on the track.

One of these weaknesses is unemployment, and that can cost Ford many votes. Even under the best of conditions foreseen, few economists expect the jobless rate to get under 7.5 per cent for 1976.

This also could be a poor year for labor-management relations. A panel of labor authorities assembled by the Conference Board, a nonprofit research organization, foresees an increased number of strikes this year.

The inflation rate still is a danger. The Commerce Department expects prices to rise by about 6.5 per cent in 1976, compared with 7 per cent last year, and that is a rate not easily accepted by most people.

If we went through the worst decline in demand for products in many years and still didn't manage to overcome inflation, what will prices be like when demand increases, as we expect it to? Flashing red light!

One of the biggest tests for the President, economically and politically, is expected to come in May. The President believes an additional $10-billion tax cut and a $395-billion budget is needed to keep the economy on track.

Many members of Congress, which is now required to adopt its own budget resolution, including spending and deficit targets, disagree. They want a bigger budget; a bigger battle could ensue that could have direct bearing on election results.

Meanwhile, the President can bask in some of the most encouraging economic news we've seen in a long time.

College students to care for cattle

WILMINGTON — Farm management technology students at Southern State College will gain some first-hand experience in animal handling next week as they care for 85 head of bred Holstein heifers. The heifers, all about seven months pregnant, will be lodged at Southern State College's north campus in Wilmington for eight days before being shipped to Tehran, Iran, where they have been purchased by private enterprises.

Dale Stokes, chairman of the agriculture department at Southern State College, said the heifers would be housed in a converted hangar on the old Clinton County Air Force Base, now the site of the north campus. Stokes explained that the facility was steam cleaned and disinfected and that federal veterinarians have approved the site for the housing of cattle.

Students will be responsible for feeding, bedding, and watering the cattle. After the heifers are shipped to Iran, students will break down the temporary holding pens and disinfect all equipment used in the improvised barn.

Stokes pointed out that the cattle will have been grouped, blood tested, and examined by veterinarians before being transported to Wilmington, insuring that only healthy cattle would be brought into the area.

Arrangements for the sale have been made by Schearbrook Farms of Dayton and American Agro Service of Lincoln, Neb. The cattle are scheduled to depart for Iran on Friday, Jan. 23.

Police grab cigarettes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland police said they arrested three men and a 16-year-old boy after stumbling on a van loaded with untaxed cigarettes worth up to $20,000.

Police said they were looking for a van believed used in the theft of citizen band radios Saturday when they moved in on the truck being unloaded at an East Side home.

Douglas Dorsett, 27, at whose home the cigarettes were being unloaded, was arrested, police said, along with Dorsett's father-in-law, Paul Palshook, 53, of Parma, and 40-year-old truck driver William Bartolotto of Brook Park.

The three were charged with possession of untaxed cigarettes.

Detectives said Bartolotto transported the cigarettes from North Carolina, where because of low state taxes they were worth only $14,000 on the retail market.

The cigarettes apparently were being sold to small retailers who could profit by escaping the Ohio taxes, police said.

Hays predicts Italian failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, a member of the House International Relations Committee, predicts the secret Central Intelligence Agency effort to fund non-Communist political groups in Italy will fail.

The Flushing, Ohio, Democrat said the United States should openly subsidize such groups instead of secretly funneling $6 million through the CIA.

CIA Director William E. Colby informed Congress of the project last month.

"I support the objectives but we should do it openly," Hays said. "Let the people know where the money is coming from."

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — James Arness, who for 20 years rode the TV range as Marshal Dillon in "Gunsmoke," returns to the tube tonight as a buckskin-clad frontiersman in a 2 1/2-hour ABC movie, "The Macahans."

But when it ends it won't be the last of the Macahans. ABC says the show may be a series next fall. It says the show is based on the movie, "How the West Was Won," and may bear that title as a series.

If tonight's effort bears any resemblance to "How the West Was Won," I'll do a fan dance in Macy's window at high noon. But I digress.

This long, lumbering saga has Big Jim cast as Zeb Macahan, a Virginian who has been out West scouting, trapping and all that for 10 years. The plot centers on his efforts to help his brother (Richard Kiley) and brother's wife (Eva Marie Saint) to move their family West from their home near Bull Run, Va., just before the start of the Civil War.

But just before the trek begins, Easterners and Midwesterners will see something completely different — President Ford's State of the Union message, which the networks are carrying live at 9 p.m. EST.

ABC will stop "The Macahans" for Ford's speech and ensuing analyses of it, then resume the proceedings.

The show begins in March 1861 with Big Jim and an Indian lad he befriended a few years earlier riding through Western woods identified as the "Hunkapa Sioux Territory."

They see a fellow scout, played by Gene Evans, set upon by Indians who are fixing to skin him alive. Zeb intervenes and gets them to hand him over, explaining that the Army wants Evans for hanging purposes, as he has fomented Indian uprisings that have cost lives.

He turns the baddie in to Fort Laramie authorities, then says he's going back to Virginia to visit the Macahans who stayed there. Cut to "Northeastern Virginia, April, 1861" and his arrival there.

Miss Saint, who in the show has four teen-agers — two boys and two girls — distrusts Zeb, calling him "a drifter, a gambler and a pagan." But Civil War clouds are looming, her husband wants to try his luck out West anyway, and off they go, Zeb having reluctantly agreed to escort them.

The journey is long and arduous, but nowhere as long and arduous as the rest of the show, which gets Zeb & Co. only as far as temporary quarters in Nebraska — a sod hut — before grinding to a halt.

This Civil War-era show could be called "Davey Crockett and The Waltons Set up a Little House on the Prairie Under a Grant Made Possible by Lee." It certainly has lots of story angles for a series. But I wish they hadn't tried to squeeze all of them into tonight's program. It makes the thing a 2 1/2-hour epic in bloat.

In 1826 the only newspaper in Cleveland, Ohio was the Herald. Later, one of its competitors, the Advertiser, was purchased in 1841 by two Vermont men who changed the name to the Plain Dealer.

Steelers take NFL title fundamentally

Super Bowl anything but dull

MIAMI (AP) — They sawed off the shotgun. They out-muscled the flex. They did everything that it takes to make for good, basic, dull football — and it was anything but dull.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, for the second straight year the greatest team in professional football, dealt the wild-card Cowboys of Dallas a fistful of fundamentals Sunday and came away with a 21-17 victory in what was easily the most thrilling Super Bowl game yet played.

And having carved an X on the bad rap these National Football League extravaganzas have carried since their inception, the Steelers immediately began thinking about carving a special niche of their own in the record books by winning a third title in a row.

The Cowboys, with quarterback Roger Staubach passing out of a deep-set shotgun offense and a "flex" defense designed to consternate Pittsburgh, had added a few new wrinkles to this game. But for all their efforts, all they got were furrowed brows. It was blocking and tackling — all there really is to football, when you get down to it — that made the difference.

"I'm a big deal today — but tomorrow we start working for Super Bowl XI," said Reggie Harrison, the bemused, almost embarrassed Steeler whose fourth-quarter blocked punt produced a safety and started Pittsburgh working in earnest toward the triumph in Super Bowl X.

"I think we'll be enjoying this one a lot more than the last one," added running back Franco Harris, a star in the Steelers' Super Bowl IX victory over Minnesota but little more than a bit-part player in this one. "We're No. 1 two times in a row and there's not too many teams that can say that. Now it'll be nice to try for No. 3 — and no team can say that yet."

Two was hard to come by. The game was a relatively even one statistically, but those are only cold numbers on a chart. On the field it was as uneven as a manic-depressive, first raising the Cowboys hopes, then dashing them, then doing the same to the Steelers' emotions.

The tempo crashed back and forth, bouncing as crazily as the football that careened into and out of the Dallas end zone after Harrison had collided with it in mid-air, jawbone to pigskin.

It was the Cowboys who got on the scoreboard first. They stamped into Pittsburgh punter Bobby Walden as he juggled the ball. In one play, a 29-yard touchdown pass from Roger Staubach to a shockingly wide-open Drew Pearson, Dallas bashed a gaping hole in the aura of Pittsburgh's Steel Curtain invincibility, becoming the first team all season to score a first-quarter touchdown against the Steelers.

Was this, then, to be the first tolling of the bell that would ring down that curtain?

It took Pittsburgh less than 4½ minutes to dispel those fears, tying the game on a touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw to an equally wideopen Randy Grossman.

From then until the fourth minute of the fourth period, it was a war of attrition, a series of missed opportunities. Toni Fritsch kicked a 36-yard field goal 15 seconds into the second period, putting Dallas on top again 10-7. He might have had a shot at another three-pointer later in the period if Pittsburgh's defense hadn't flexed its own muscles, turning a second-and-10 situation on the Pittsburgh 23 into a fourth-and-35 by creaming Staubach on successive pass attempts.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh was blowing some chances of its own, but doing it more blatantly, compliments of place-kicker Roy Gerela's inaccurate right foot. He lined a 36-yard try of his own to the left of the luminescent yellow-green uprights in the final minute of the second period, then repeated his act of futility about a third of the way into the third quarter by hooking a 33-yarder.

He had a pretty good excuse, though, for his lack of marksmanship. It seems he was nursing a broken rib. He busted it on the first play of the game by knocking Dallas' Tom Henderson out of bounds, preventing the razzle-dazzle reverse runback from the Super Bowl's first kickoff returned for a touchdown.

So into the fourth quarter these two teams went, the Steelers pounding away at Dallas and coming up empty; the Cowboys cracking away at Pittsburgh and holding, ever so tenuously, their three-point lead.

Something had to give.

Something did. It was, of all things, the Cowboys' punting unit. And what had been an intense, fierce, frustrating game of near-misses became a rollercoaster of scoring, changing the numbers on the scoreboard almost as quickly as the numbers on the big board in the stock exchange.

Harrison, a 1974 midseason acquisition by Pittsburgh after the St. Louis Cardinals cut him adrift, came through the line like a locomotive at full throttle and met the football face first, an instant after punter Mitch Hoopes' foot hit the ball.

"I think I got it with my mouth," he said later, impishly displaying a tongue with a gash up the middle. "I thought I had it with my arm, but after the block I turned around and spat and got nothing but blood, so I guess I took it in the face."

It seemed impossible to some that Harrison wouldn't know where he'd been hit. It was even more incredible that he didn't know how much impact his play had.

He didn't think much about the block itself, either. Both coaches — Chuck Noll of Pittsburgh and Tom Landry of Dallas — and plenty of players on both sides said it was the turning point, the instant the Steelers began smelling blood.

"I don't think it was so important. Heck, there were some really big plays," he said, referring to a Mike Wagner interception that helped the Steelers pad their lead and a 64-yard Lynn Swann touchdown catch that put the game away.

"Those were the big ones. Mine was just lucky. I'd never take credit for winning the game, for doing something as big as that."

With 1:22 to work with, Staubach got the Cowboys from their own 39 to the Pittsburgh 38. Now there were 20 seconds to go and counting. An incomplete stopped the clock at 12. Another stopped it at three. And on a wing-and-a-prayer pass into the logjammed end zone, safety Glen Edwards got to the ball for an interception and Pittsburgh got the game for the title.

Blue Lions come back to top Jackson in non-league debut

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

JACKSON — Fighting back from a 14-point first half deficit, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions clawed their way to a 66-61 victory over the Jackson Ironmen Saturday night.

Sophomore sensation John Denen and senior star Doug Phillips paved the way to the win as Phillips rammed home 21 points and Denen tossed in 16 tallies. Denen equalled a school record by pulling down 21 rebounds in the game and Phillips came down with 10 caroms. Denen practically surpassed the entire Jackson team, as they only had 27 combines.

Jackson jumped on top early with six quick points from Tom Osborne before Washington scored on a shot by Dee Hart Foster to make the score 6-2. The Ironmen got three more points to take the lead at 9-2 before Denen showed some heroics with six points and the lead was shaved to 71-14 at the end of the first quarter.

For the first five minutes of the second quarter, the game belonged to Jackson. During that stretch, they outscored the Lions 16-5 and built up a 33-19 lead. Seemingly down and out, the Lions did not allow the Ironmen another point until midway through the third quarter.

At the end of the second period, points by Sam McLendon, Scott Sefton, and Phillips made the score 33-26 at halftime.

After intermission, the Lions scored ten unanswered points, six by Phillips and two each by Denen and Chuck Byrd, to give the Lions the lead at 36-33. During a seven minute period, the Lions outscored Jackson 17-0. The Ironmen took back the lead at the end of the period with six straight points and led 47-46 going into the final quarter.

The battle seesawed until Court House put together seven consecutive points to take the lead at 58-54. The teams then traded baskets for two minutes until the score read 62-59 with one minute to go. For the second night in a row, Denen calmly sank two free throws to ice the game. Byrd added the last three points and the Lions won their second game in as many nights, 66-61.

In addition to Phillips and Denen, Byrd also cracked the double figure barrier with 15 counters. Jackson landed three players in the double figure bracket. Jeff Conroy tossed in 18 points while Osborne and Jim McDonald added 17 and 12 points, respectively.

The key to the Lions win was the way that they controlled both the offensive and defensive boards as they out-rebounded Jackson 52-27.

The shooting percentages were nearly even with Court House getting six more field goals than Jackson. The Lions shot 26 for 62 for a 41.0 average while the Ironmen hit on 20 of 45 shots for a 44.4 per cent average. At the foul line the men of iron had the edge, sinking 21 of 33 shots while Washington made 14 of 21 charity tosses.

The Lions next game will be Tuesday night against Chillicothe at the CHS gym. Next Friday, they return home to meet Unioto.

An open letter from Sparky

Reds manager optimistic for '76

By SPARKY ANDERSON
Manager, Cincinnati Reds

I'm always eager to get to spring training, but I'm really going to enjoy it this year. I just want to get to Tampa and drive back and forth past our camp so I can read that sign that says "World Champs."

Johnny Bench has called our camp "Stalag 17" in the past. Wait 'till he sees how we're going to operate this spring. He'll be calling it worse than that. It's tough enough to go all the way and win a World Series, but I know it's even more of a job to keep that title. All of our players are going to be made aware of that quickly.

"....I like to see a club that's a little arrogant."

But if we're the club we say we are, we can go down there and get ourselves ready to prove it. We'll have a flair, an arrogance about us when we go on the field. I like to see a club that's a little arrogant. But you have to be sure you can back it up.

Just think how much fun I'm going to have making out a lineup card when I can write in the names of three MVP winners every day. That's some kind of feeling to know you've got people like Joe Morgan (1975 MVP, Pete Rose (1973 MVP) and Bench (1970 and 1972 MVP) going for you. And they've got the Big Dog, Tony Perez, right in there with them.

We've got some good looking kids coming to our camp, but I'll tell you, they're really going to have to play some baseball to push anybody out of our regular lineup.

Winning the MVP award should make Joe very conscious of how much this club depends on him. He's a real leader on this team and he has to maintain that, which I know he will.

It'll be a big plus for Pete to be able to work all spring at third base. He had to jump right into it during the season last year and that's tough to do. Now he'll be more familiar with third base. This is a new challenge for Pete and challenge is his way of life. He won't allow himself to give less than his best.

I know Bench is looking forward to spring training and the prospect of playing without all the pain that he had last year. Johnny played with an extreme handicap after he banged up his shoulder. He had a fine year, considering what he went through. Now that operation should have him straightened out again.

One of the problems we have is finding a way to get Danny Driessen into the lineup more often. He's going to be a fine hitter, but he has to get in there and play. I'll probably use him more at first base and give Tony more rest. I know Tony will drive in about as many runs playing 130 games as he will playing 150, because he'll be stronger. But Danny is going to be playing some in the outfield, too.

Davey Concepcion fell off a little last year. There is no question that he's the best shortstop in the business, but he hasn't completely proven it to the baseball world because he doesn't totally drive all the way. When he starts driving like Morgan and Rose, there will be no stopping him.

Our starting outfielders really established themselves last summer. George Foster got his confidence when left field opened up for him and he got a chance to play every day. He should be a solid 280-plus hitter with power.

I was really pleased with Cesar Geronimo's defense. I know he didn't hit as much as the year before, but I'm not concerned with his offense. His defense more than makes up for that.

Ken Griffey showed great improvement. He has the tools to be the best of all of them if he commits himself to it. He realizes now he can do it. He has to cut down his strikeouts and use his speed better.

There's going to be a real battle for the other spots on our roster. Not only do we have some talented youngsters, but we helped ourselves by getting a couple of fellows like Mike Lum and Bob Bailey to go with the veterans we had already.

There is one thing that will be no different this spring than in the past. Our main objective and our main concern every spring is to come out of spring training with the right pitchers.

Some baseball people like to downgrade our starting pitching, but I'm not concerned about that. We got some fine pitching last summer and I know we'll be even stronger this season.

For one thing, we'll have Don Gullett for the whole season and that will be a tremendous thing for us. Don was having a super season when he got hit by that line drive and broke his thumb. He sat out two months and still won 15 games.

Gary Nolan will definitely be much better in 1976. He did a good job, but he wasn't 100 per cent last year. We knew he wouldn't be after virtually not pitching for two years with that shoulder problem. But what a comeback he made to win 15 games. Gary will be a much better pitcher just from having gone through that and pitching a full season.

Jack Billingham had some problems last year, but

during the World Series he looked like the old Billingham to me and that's plenty good. He was throwing with more velocity and with a better curve ball than he had all season.

Fred Norman, Pat Darcy and Tom Carroll all did some good pitching for us last year and they'll all be in the scramble for a starting job again this year.

We've got some young pitchers that I really want to take a good look at early in spring training. Look at the way Rawly Eastwick and Will McEnaney came along to establish themselves as our 1-2 punch in the bullpen. Pedro Borbon gives me another good arm down there, but we could have a few new faces on the pitching staff. That could be the biggest change in our team.

Fellows like Pat Zachry, Santo Alcala, Tommy Hume, Larry Payne, Manuel Sarmiento and Raul Ferreyra will all be coming right out of the winter leagues, so they should be ready to show me what they can do.

LION IN CONTROL — Washington C.H. guard Chuck Byrd seems to be taunting a Jackson defender with his ball-handling skill in Saturday's game on the Ironmen's home

Eastwick finds solace in art

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Over the years, Cincinnati Reds pitchers have been a colorful lot.

Bookworm Jim Brosnan wrote novels and quoted philosophers. Trigger tempered Joe Nuxhall mugged water coolers, kicked down doors and scattered food on the lockerroom floor. Pedro Borbon has been known to put the bite on batters—literally.

Move over boys. Make room for an artist. A real one.

Rawly Eastwick, with looks to land him a Hollywood part, finds solace away from the baseball park by working with easel and canvas.

The 25-year-old curly-haired righthander vaulted into prominence last fall by winning two World Series games and saving another after leading the National League with 22 saves.

He has quietly celebrated his newfound fame painting works for friends.

"It's something I've enjoyed since I was a kid. My mother is an artist and so is my brother," said Eastwick, who admits he wasn't prepared for the crush of attention.

"There for a while the phone rang off the hook. I had calls from girls all over the country. They thought that since we fly everywhere I could just drop in and see them," he said. "Others told me they didn't want me depressed over the home run I gave up to Bernie Carbo in the sixth game at Boston."

Painting provides a quiet retreat from the bright lights. "It relaxes me," said the 6-foot-3 native of Haddonfield, N.J. who hopes to stage an art exhibit in a year.

He paints for friends rather than profit. "I've given away most everything I paint," he said. Team-mate Johnny Bench and his wife Vickie received a large still of a vase and fruit for their wedding.

"I like to put symbolism in my paintings," said Eastwick, who in his first full big league season established himself as a top bullpen specialist.

"I'm an expressionist. An impressionist sees something and then paints it. An expressionist takes something in his mind and puts it on canvas.

"Right now I'm working on a modern experiment for Will McEnaney. It shows a guy in sun glasses with a rainbow going through his head. It symbolizes freedom and Will is something of a free spirit," he said, with a laugh. McEnaney, a bullpen colleague with the Reds, got his eccentric reputation while in the minor leagues, where one of his favorite gigs, walking an imaginary dog on a leash, drew a rebuke from the team manager.

"I also do landscapes, abstracts and charcoal sketches. I like to tell a story or get a message across. It's relaxing to let your feelings emerge with symbols," he said.

Eastwick's 2.60 earned run average was third-best on the team behind starter Don Gullett and fellow reliever McEnaney. It developed so impressively that the Reds' front office traded away veteran righthander Clay Carroll, the busiest pitcher in Cincinnati history.

Eastwick, Cincinnati's No. 3 draft choice in 1969, considered the trade of Carroll a vote of confidence and vows he won't take a complacent attitude into the coming season.

"1976 is an important year for me. I can't lay down and expect to do well. I've got to keep my feet on the ground," he said.

Ex-Panther mentor takes head coach job

MONTGOMERY, W. VA. — Roy Lucas, the only coach in Miami Trace football history to post a perfect 10-0 record, has been named head football coach at West Virginia Tech.

He guided the Panthers to their best record ever in 1971 and he will succeed Charlie Cobb, who resigned the post earlier this year.

Lucas, brother of former All-Pro basketball star Jerry Lucas, comes to Tech from Morehead State University in Kentucky, where he has coached since 1972. While at Morehead, Lucas coached all phases of the game, including offensive line coach in 1972, offensive coordinator and offensive backfield coach in 1973-74, and the defensive line and linebacker coach in 1975. Lucas was also a recruiting coordinator, working in areas around northern Kentucky and southern Ohio.

Lucas began his coaching career at Lloyd High School in Erlanger, Ky. where, under head coach Jack Turner, Lloyd High was state champions in 1965. In 1966 Lucas was named head football coach at Lloyd High and coached the team to an overall 26-12 record from 1966-1970 before taking the job as head coach at Miami Trace High School in 1970. During his first year at Miami Trace, the team was 2-7 but the following year, they were 10-0.

Lucas comes to Tech a proven winner and is tabbed not only a great coach but an excellent teacher and a dedicated family man.

Lucas was queried on his plans for the Tech football program. "I like to throw the football a lot—usually out of the Pro-I formation—so the fans can look for a passing team. Defensively, we'll use a basic 50 defense," Lucas responded.

Tech Athletic Director Neal Baisi said, "We're most pleased for Roy to join our staff as he has the credentials to turn our football program around here at Tech."

Dr. Leonard C. Nelson, president of the college, said, "I am very pleased with the selection of Roy Lucas as our Head Football Coach. I am confident that he will successfully handle his new assignment here at Tech."

Lucas' wife, Beverly, also holds a master's degree in higher education and is currently teaching in the home economics department at Morehead State. She also was hostess for a statewide weekly educational television show in Kentucky. The Lucases are parents of two boys, Roy Jr., who is nine years old, and five-year-old Jerry.

MAC race grows into close contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Expectedly, Western Michigan and Miami share the MidAmerican basketball lead. But Ohio University also unbeaten in the conference?

The Bobcats, predicted to finish eighth in the race this winter, are off to a 3-0 MAC start, a scant half of a game behind the leaders.

"What can I say," said Ohio Coach Dale Bandy of a harrowing 75-74 road victory over Ball State Saturday night.

"Three of my players make six free throws in the last 32 seconds away from home. And two of them are freshmen.

"I'm delighted. I feel fantastic. Until someone beats us, we're in this thing (the MAC race) all the way," said Bandy.

Jim Holstein, Ball State's mentor, became a Bobcat believer.

"Ohio gave us all kinds of matchup problems," he said. "We couldn't play our big men with all their small, quick men in the game."

Elsewhere Saturday, Western Michigan ran its unbeaten spell to 12 games, rolling by Northern Illinois 78-65; Miami slipped by dangerous Kent State 72-67. Bowling Green beat Eastern Michigan 71-68 and Toledo handled defending champion Central Michigan 73-59.

One of the unbeaten leaders is sure to fall this week. Ohio plays at Miami Saturday.

Darrell Hedric, Miami's coach, credited John Shoemaker's basket that snapped a 63-63 deadlock for keeping the Redskins unbeaten in the conference.

"It enabled us to go into our box stall," said Hedric, "and forced Kent out of its zone and into a foul situation."

Rex Hughes, his Kent State team down to 2-2 in the MAC, was blunt afterward. "We lacked patience in our offense. We took poor shots. We played hard enough to win, but we didn't play smart enough," he said.

The loss of second-leading scorer Cortez Brown with an ankle sprain this week damaged the Flashes. "We can't kid ourselves," said Hughes. "We're half a team without him."

Jeff Tyson put in 21 points and Jimmie Harvey 19 for Western Michigan, which ripped into a 78-60 lead at Northern Illinois to match Miami's 4-0 MAC mark. The Huskies, paced by No. 1 MAC-scorer Matt Hicks' 26 points, dropped their fourth straight conference start.

Ron Hammy almost went from hero to goat in the last seconds for Bowling Green, now fourth in the MAC at 3-2. Hammy scored a three-point play with 1½ minutes left for a 70-68 lead. Then he threw the ball away with 25 seconds to go. However, Eastern (0-4) couldn't capitalize.

"We had a super first half," said Eastern Michigan Coach Al Freund, "but we beat ourselves in the second half. We had a defensive lapse on Hammy."

Mike Larsen and Dave Speicher scored 17 points apiece for Toledo (2-2), never seriously in trouble after forging a 16-point halftime lead. Leonard Drake had 20 for Central Michigan (1-3).

Elsewhere, 14th-ranked Cincinnati posted its 13th victory in 15 games, 76-61 over Wisconsin-Milwaukee. The Bearcats convinced losing Coach Bob Gottlieb. "No question Cincinnati is a great team," he said.

Johnny Davis, who had 21 points including two free throws with nine seconds left, gave Dayton a 67-64 verdict over Rollins. Xavier ran into 15th-rated Notre Dame's buzz saw 90-79, with All-American Adrian Dantley pouring in 35 for the Irish.

Purdue handed Ohio State its seventh straight loss 84-80. The Buckeyes (4-9), without injured 6-foot-10 Craig Taylor, return to Big Ten action tonight against visiting Illinois.

In the Ohio Conference, favored Wittenberg and Otterbein share the Southern Division lead at 3-0 while Heidelberg, despite a nonleague upset by Ohio Wesleyan, still paces the Northern Division at 3-0.

Otterbein handed visiting Muskingum its first Southern setback 57-51, while Wittenberg won at Marietta 59-51. Heidelberg came up a 75-64 cropper at Ohio Wesleyan, a member of the Southern race.

WCH reserves keep winning

Coach John Skinner's Lion reserve squad took their eighth win against just one loss by crushing the Jackson Jayvees, 57-42.

The Lions, drawing a pair of technical fouls in the third quarter, took their vengeance out on the Ironmen as they limited them to just four points in that period, all on free throws.

Tom Dean and Mark Burke again led the Lions in scoring with 16 and 12 points respectively. They got scoring help from Bruce Cupp and Mike Lamberson, who tallied eight each.

Richard Harless looked to be about all Jackson had to offer in the way of offense as he scored 21 points to lead all scorers. The closest point-getter to him on his team had five points.

The Lions will be looking to go 9-1 when they lock horns with the Cavalier reserves at Chillicothe and come back home to meet the Sherman Jayvees before the Lion-Union varsity clash Friday night.

The One-Minute Get Well. 36¢ or less.

Hello there stranger.

Why Jack, how are you?

The question is, how are you? Heard you won't be bowling for a while.

Yeah, I broke my thumb about two weeks ago. But I'm getting along.

You sound as ornery as ever.

Well, I don't think I could take on any of your team back there in Ohio, but next season... look out.

Right. Well, you take care and keep listening to your better half.

You bet. And thanks for calling.

A one-minute out-of-state long distance call can mean so much, and it costs so little.

After 5 pm, a one-minute out-of-state direct-dialed call is only 36¢ or less.

Why, compared to writing and sending a letter, it's faster, easier and so much more personal.

Of course, if you want to say more than get well, it's even a better bargain. Because each additional minute is less. Making a 10-minute visit as far as California just $2.70, plus tax—it's even less after 11 pm, all day Saturday and until 5 pm Sunday.

So keep our handy After-Five Calling Card handy. For saying get well. Or happy birthday. Or Ohio Bell thank you. Or anything.

Dial-direct rates apply on all interstate calls (excluding Alaska) completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where dial-direct facilities are not available. For dial-direct rates to Hawaii, check your operator. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

The After-Five Out-Of-State Calling Card.

Maximum direct-dialed out-of-state rates for calls made without the operator's help, Sunday-Friday, 5-11 PM.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

Even the U.S. Postal Service can change its mind once in a while.

The perceptive postal patri-archs, in their infinite wisdom, announced the cancellation of the 1976 issue featuring a sheet of 32 stamps reproducing the entire Declaration of Independence — with each stamp showing a portion of the famed document, much like a jigsaw puzzle. If it had been issued, each stamp in the set could have been used for postage, which meant that one might have used a stamp depicting Ben Franklin's nose or John
sion was reached in consultation with the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Nevertheless, of the 19 commemorative postal issuances scheduled for 1976, 14 will be in support of the Bicentennial and will include the big sheet of 50 featuring the flags of the 50 states in the Union. The five stamps not related to the Bicentennial celebration are: centennial of the telephone, 50th anniversary of the first contract airmail flights, chemistry, Nurse Clara Maas and a pair of Christmas stamps.

In connection with the new international postal rates going into effect Jan. 3, there are two new U.S. stamps. The 25-cent and 31-cent international air-mails bear the same design showing a front view sketch of a plane with a world globe printed over the jet engines.

The colors are red, blue and black.

The 1975 Child Welfare set of the Netherlands Antilles highlights children at play. One stamp shows children making a Curacao windmill with a collection of products in the background. Another stamp depicts a young girl making clay models. The third stamp illustrates children drawing pictures with some of their art work in the background. The additional values on this semipostal set go to the various children's welfare organizations in this little Dutch colony at the edge of South America.

The United Nations Postal Administration announced the issuance of four new definitives on Jan. 9 in denominations of 3 cents, 4 cents, 30 cents and 50 cents. The 3-center will show a collection of multicolored flags in the shape of a dove. The 4-cent stamp will portray a group of people of all races. The 30-cent adhesive features the United Nations flag. The 50-cent depicts a dove superimposed over a rainbow. Each stamp bears the U.N. symbol but only the 30-center carries the marginal inscriptions in the four official languages.

PHILA-TALES AND TRIVIA
... Women's hairstyles are featured on a new seven-value set from Ethiopia. Each stamp shows a different coiffure from various areas of that country
... The game of chess is master on a new set of stamps from Nicaragua. The stamps feature the history of chess from its beginnings in Persia and India to the present day.
Included are a rare painting of Shakespeare and Ben Johnson playing the game, and a color
at their famous Icelandic match. ... The new U.S. 21-cent international airmail postal card carries an indicia depicting a representation of the Angel Gabriel as taken from an early American weathervane of the 19th century. Maybe the angel is still waiting for his mail delivery — in vain?

Don't Worry About Extra Toes

Our daughter has two perfectly healthy children. The third child, born two months ago, has an extra toe on each foot. Our greatest concern is that this may mean that the baby will develop other abnormalities, too.

Mrs. H. B., Texas

Dear Mrs. B.:

The condition you describe is unusual, but not rare. This birth defect is known as "super-numerary digits." Actually, all this means is that the number of toes exceeds the normal number. This can occur on both the feet and the hands.

When the proper time comes, the extra digit (toe or finger) can be safely removed by surgery. The results are excellent. There are many surgeons who devote themselves almost exclusively to complicated hand and foot abnormalities.

Since there are no other evidences of birth defects you must rest reassured that there is no likelihood that any additional problems will arise.

Children born with extra digits are operated on long before they are in contact with other children. Consequently, embarrassing situations are avoided.

Twice before I have had polyps removed from my nose. Now I've been told that more have grown in my nose. My nose is stopped and my sense of smell is almost gone. How can I be sure that they won't come back again if I have an operation now?

Mr. S. L., Ore.

Dear Mr. L.:

Nose polyps are grape-like swellings that grow on the inner lining of the nose. Frequently, there are also polyps that lie deep within the sinuses themselves.

All polyps in the nose are caused by infections of the nose and sinuses, allergies or a combination of both.

Herein lies the basis for your problem. It is inadequate to remove the polyps and not treat the basic underlying reason for their development.

Almost invariably patients become careless when the nasal blockage is removed following surgery and fail to continue treatment for the allergy or the infection. Consequently, polyps will again form and grow until the nose is blocked and uncomfortable.

The loss of smell is also caused by the same factors that produce the polyps. It is very difficult to speculate as to whether the sense of smell will return.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead - king of clubs.

You'd certainly want to be in four spades with the North-South hands, but when Mrs. Emma Jean Hawes of Fort Worth, Texas, got there she wound up going down one.

The deal occurred in the match between the U.S. and Italy during the Ladies Championship of the 1972 World Bridge Olympiad. Mrs. Jabes and Mrs. Robaudo cooperated beautifully on defense to insure Mrs. Hawes' downfall.

Mrs. Jabes led the king of clubs and continued with the ace, on which Mrs. Robaudo played the queen! The queen was a suit-preference signal asking West to lead a heart rather than a diamond at trick three.

Mrs. Jabes realized that her partner had the ace of hearts and, as she wanted to coax a club return at trick four, she shifted to the nine of hearts, pretending it was her highest heart.

Mrs. Robaudo took the ace, returned the jack of clubs, and Mrs. Hawes sadly went down one when West heartlessly scored the setting trick with the nine of trumps.

As if this were not enough bad luck on one deal, the American team was subjected to a second reverse at the other table where the bidding, with the U.S. sitting East-West, went:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dble
Pass	3 ♣	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	4 ♣

The Italian South led the king of spades and shifted to the king and another diamond! North cashed the A-J to put the contract down one. Furthermore, South discarded a heart on the third round of diamonds and then got a heart ruff! So East went down two as a result of the snappy defense.

No wonder Italy won the ladies world championship that year!

Retail sales off slightly, report shows

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University's center for business and economic research reports that retail sales in Ohio were off slightly during November by about 1 per cent after seasonal adjustments from October.

November sales were 5 per cent above levels for the same month in 1974 compared to October's 8 per cent year-to-year rise, the center reported. Retailers' sales were 3 per cent higher in the first 11 months of 1975 as compared with figures for the same period the year before.

The report said durable goods retailers generally fared best among the 16 kinds of businesses reporting November-to-November sales increases of the 25 retail lines covered by Ohio State indexes. Appliance stores sales rose 61 per cent, automobile dealers and lumber-building materials store sales were up 18 per cent each.

General stores with food reported increases of 51 per cent; service stations were up 11 per cent; shoe stores and drug stores, 8 per cent; and florists, 19 per cent.

The categories reporting substantial declines for the November-to-November period included fuel dealers, down 64 per cent and hay-feed, farm and garden stores, 25 per cent. Most clothing stores reported moderate declines, except department stores, whose sales were up 9 per cent over the previous November.

With the exception of Chillicothe (Ross County) where a 6 per cent decline was reported, all Ohio city-county areas surveyed by the center showed increased sales for the month over November 1974.

Across the state the increases ranged from 3 per cent in Cleveland (Cuyahoga), Youngstown (Mahoning), and Hamilton-Middletown (Butler), to 12 per cent in Dayton (Montgomery). In between were Canton (Stark), up 4 per cent; Cincinnati (Hamilton) and Portsmouth (Scioto), 8 per cent; Columbus (Franklin) and Akron (Summit), 9 per cent, and Toledo (Lucas), 11 per cent.

For the first 11 months of 1975 only two city-county areas, Chillicothe (Ross) and Cleveland (Cuyahoga) showed sales declines compared with the same period in 1974, down 3 per cent and less than .5 per cent respectively. Increases reported in the 11-month comparison were: Portsmouth (Scioto), fractional; Canton (Stark), Hamilton-Middletown (Butler) and Youngstown (Mahoning), 1 per cent; Akron (Summit) and Columbus (Franklin), 2 per cent; Cincinnati (Hamilton), 3 per cent; Dayton (Montgomery), 4 per cent, and Toledo (Lucas), 5 per cent.

Trustee OK bonding plan

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The board of trustees of Toledo University has authorized issuance of $4 million of general receipts bond anticipation notes to finance two main campus multi-level parking structures.

The board also adopted a new schedule of parking fees and basketball ticket prices for 1976-77.

Geauga County, Ohio, formed in 1805, takes its name from the Indian word for "raccoon."

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature.

Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now U. S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Two burglaries investigated

Two burglaries, one discovered by a Washington C.H. police officer while on routine patrol, are presently under investigation by the city police department. Police also reported incidents involving criminal mischief, larceny and property destruction. Washington C.H. Police Sgt. Robert Massie noticed at 2:31 a.m. Monday the front window of the Thompson Transfer Co., 153 S. Hinde St., broken while on patrol. Further investigation showed the business had been burglarized and ransacked and a safe had been opened. Police stated there had been no money on the premises and believe the incident to have occurred anytime between 6 p.m. Sunday and the time of discovery.

A second burglary occurred sometime between 3:20 a.m. and 3:45 a.m. Monday at the Washington C.H. Eagles lodge, 320 Sycamore St. Police reported a window broken at the southwest corner of the building and the establishment entered. They have not yet determined what was taken.

A car belonging to Marvin J. Collins, 331 N. Fayette St., was damaged when struck with a log chain at 4:30 p.m. Sunday while parked in front of 532 W. Paint St. Police stated although the person responsible for the destruction is known to Collins, no charges have been filed. Damage was estimated at $50.

A citizen band radio antenna mounted on a car owned by Larry R. Conley, Columbus, was broken off while the auto was parked in the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union parking lot between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday. Police estimated damage at $25.

A tape player valued at $80 was stolen from a car belonging to Diane E. Polk, 916 Davis Court, sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday while the auto was parked at Washington Senior High School. Police are investigating.

The front plate glass window at Herb's Dry Cleaners, 222 E. Court St., was broken sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8:03 a.m. Saturday. Police reported the window may have been struck with a rock. They estimated the damage at $100.

By The Associated Press
Moderating temperatures moved into Ohio today. Readings were as much as 20 degrees warmer than Sunday morning.

However, early morning readings continued chilly and ranged from single digit figures to the lower teens.

Brisk southerly winds in advance of a cold front will push afternoon temperatures into the 20s in the north and the upper 20s and lower 30s in the south.

Snow will begin in the northwestern counties by late morning or early afternoon and overspread the northeast by evening.

About two to three inches will fall in the northwest by evening.

Snow possibly changing or becoming mixed rain and snow will fall in the southwestern counties by late today and tonight.

The snow or rain will taper off to flurries tonight as a cold front advances through the state during the night.

Morning lows will drop into the teens and 20s and climb only into the 20s and 30s on Tuesday as scattered snow flurries continue to fall Tuesday.

A look into the future indicates a few fair weather days are in prospect for about mid week.

Fair Wednesday through Friday. Highs from the upper 20s to mid 30s Wednesday, warming to the 30s and low 40s by Friday. Lows 15 to 25 Wednesday and in the 20s Thursday and Friday.

Two drivers charged after rural mishaps

Two Fayette County men were charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for driving while intoxicated after they became involved in traffic mishaps over the weekend. Sheriff's deputies investigated a total of four accidents and Washington C. H. police reported one traffic mishap.

A car driven by Glen Ryan, 50, Bloomingburg, failed to negotiate a left curve on Ohio 38 near the Brown Street intersection at 6:20 p.m. Sunday and struck a fence owned by Walter C. Baker, 1179 Ohio 38-NE. Ryan was charged by sheriff's deputies with driving while intoxicated and reckless operation.

A car driven by Steven C. Tarbutton, 19, Brentwood Drive, struck a spruce tree belonging to Robert Kline, 476 Brentwood Drive, at 12:15 a.m. Sunday when Tarbutton lost control of his auto. He was not hurt, according to deputies.

A car driven by Howard Trimble, 26, Parrott-Station Road, traveled out of control on Creamer Road, three-tenths of a mile north of U. S. 35, at 8 a.m. Saturday and struck a Dayton Power and Light Co. utility pole. Trimble was charged with driving left of center and his car was severely damaged, deputies reported.

A car driven by John F. Hudnell, 28, U. S. 22, traveled across Ohio 41, near Miami Trace Road at 3:45 p.m. Friday and struck a dirt embankment. Sheriff's deputies charged Hudnell with driving while intoxicated and driving left of center. He was not injured.

A car driven by Ruth R. Clemmer, 74, of 820 E. Market St., struck a parked car owned by Donald Walston, 828 E. Market St., at 4:15 p.m. Saturday while traveling on E. Court Street near the North Street intersection. Washington C. H. police cited Ms. Clemmer for reckless operation. She told the investigating officer the sun was in her eyes. Damage was moderate to both vehicles, but no one was injured.

MT teachers vote to seek recognition by county board

Teachers in the Miami Trace School District have overwhelmingly agreed to seek recognition of the Miami Trace Association as the sole bargaining agent for Miami Trace teachers in negotiations with the Fayette County Board of Education.

Mrs. Frances Moore, MTA president, said the membership of the teachers association voted 103-2 in favor of a resolution citing recognition of the association as a bargaining agent as the top MTA priority. The MTA membership represents 72 per cent of the system's teachers, and the 103 members voting for the resolution constitutes 64 per cent of all teachers in the district, including those who are not MTA members.

In addition, 138 of the system's 160 teachers (86 per cent) have returned signed statements designating the MTA as their exclusive bargaining agent with the board of education.

Man being held in dual slaying

ROCKVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Benjamin Paul Woody, 27, Montezuma, is held in the Parke County jail here on $500,000 bond, charged in the slayings of a Rockville teacher and her 4-year-old son.

State police arrested Woody Saturday night. The bodies of Christine A. Norton, 26, and her son, Brett, were discovered in their home Jan. 10. They had been stabbed, police said.

Prosecutor Clelland J. Hanner said he will ask that a grand jury be convened this week to investigate the murders.

Flood insurance made available

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The National Flood Insurers Association announced that two more Ohio communities are eligible for low-cost flood insurance through the industry-government program.

Property owners in the villages of Mount Blanchard in Hancock County and Tuscarawas in Tuscarawas County can purchase flood insurance.

Since the MTA has only 115 members, several teachers who are not members are willing to allow the MTA to represent them.

Although representatives of the MTA had planned to attend Tuesday's board meeting to present their position to board members, the meeting was scheduled for 1:30 p.m., and teachers will be in class at that time.

They have decided to address the board of education at its meeting on Feb. 3.

Local firefighters answer two alarms

A car fire and a false alarm were reported by Washington C. H. firemen over the weekend.

The battery in a car belonging to Roy O. Sturgill, 423 Wilson St., shorted against the car body at 10:43 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of N. North and Paint streets. Firemen responded and disconnected the battery. They estimated damage at $100 to the wiring and the battery.

Employees at the Washington Lumber Co., 319 Broadway, moved the heat detector alarm at 7:39 a.m. Monday, accidentally setting it off. Firemen went to the scene and found no fire.

State of Union message tonight

Economics to be key in President's talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to emphasize domestic issues, such as the battles against inflation and recession, when he reports to Congress tonight on the State of the Union this Bicentennial year.

The President will address a joint session of Congress and a national television audience at 9 p.m. EST.

19 days after retirement

Judge Winegardner dies in Columbus

Reed M. Winegardner, who retired less than three weeks ago as Washington C. H. Municipal Court judge, died at 9:30 a.m. Monday in Doctor's Hospital-West, Columbus, where he had been a patient since Jan. 3.

The 75-year-old Judge Winegardner, who resided at 4933 Hamden Way in Columbus, retired Dec. 31 after 13 consecutive years on the Municipal Court bench.

Appointed Municipal Court judge on Jan. 1, 1963 by Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to fill the unexpired term of Judge Max G. Dice who died the previous month, Judge Winegardner won election to a six-year term the same year. He was re-elected in 1969.

Judge Winegardner began a private law practice in Fayette County on Feb. 1, 1939. Before that he served as a deputy commissioner in the state tax commission and as assistant state attorney general.

He also served as a Red Cross field director in Europe during World War II and as a regional director for the federal Civil Defense Administration for the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky in 1951 and 1952.

A graduate of the Ohio Northern University college of law in 1921, he was a member of past president of the Fayette County Bar Association. He was also a member of Ohio and American bar associations. He also served four years as solicitor and legal advisor for the village of Jeffersonville.

Survivors include his wife, Doris, who served as his secretary in Municipal Court for a number of years.

Services are being arranged by the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C. H.

Democratic leaders in Congress already have served notice that they have some basic disagreements with Ford over economic policy. Those policy disputes are expected to figure prominently in this year's election debates.

Ford worked during the weekend on his speech that is expected to propose a further cut in income taxes but a hike in Social Security taxes. The speech is said to be a broad overview of domestic and foreign affairs, with more details to be announced Wednesday in Ford's budget message.

Officials also describe tonight's speech as more upbeat than Ford's first State of the Union message a year ago when he said, "The State of the Union is not good," citing problems of unemployment and energy.

White House sources say this State of the Union message will call for holding the line on spending as a first step toward a balanced budget in three years. Ford's budget is expected to propose expenditures of $394 billion, including a $10-billion boost in defense spending, a $10-billion tax cut, a $4.2-billion hike in Social Security payments and a $42-billion federal deficit.

The proposed hike in Social Security taxes would boost the maximum for individuals to about $1,014 in 1977, up from $895 now. The Social Security tax rate would go up threenths of 1 per cent starting next Jan. 1, raising the total tax for both employees and employers to 6.15 per cent of a worker's salary, up from the 5.85 per cent now.

The proposed $42-billion federal deficit compares with a deficit of about $70 billion expected this year.

But Congress' Democratic leaders say Ford's proposals would put too tight a squeeze on jobs. There is some speculation that Congress' proposed budget might run as high as $430 billion.

"In dealing with the economy we're going to put jobs on the front burner," House Speaker Carl Albert said in an interview.

Albert and House leaders have set out an election year strategy that puts overriding priority on Congress approval of three bills they say would create or preserve 1.4 million jobs.

Other major legislation that Congress is expected to consider this year would reorganize U.S. intelligence agencies, change the tax code to end some tax breaks and cut off U.S. aid to Angola.

Coffee Break . .

REPORTS have been flying in from all over Fayette County noting the presence of many more crows than were stated as being residents of the area in an article published in Thursday's Record-Herald . . .

The crows reportedly are not as near extinction as was implied and their numbers appear to be much higher than the figure of 25 carried in the story . . .

Various trees on Elm Street and an area near the Ohio Water Service Co. reservoir off Dayton Avenue boast relatively large crow populations, according to numerous bird watchers here . . .

An editorial

Voters demanded service cuts

By GEORGE MALEK

Washington C.H. City Council members will meet Monday afternoon to discuss which items in the $888,786 general fund budget for 1976 will have to be slashed to eliminate the $130,494 deficit which exists.

Although some other city fund accounts are healthy, the revenue in the general fund will fall far short of meeting the anticipated 1976 expenditures, and severe cutbacks in service will result in many areas. Unfortunately, excess funds in other accounts cannot, by law, be used to ease the general fund deficit.

Each City Council member (as in fact each citizen) has his own opinion as to which areas of the budget can be least painlessly trimmed. Undoubtedly, when the final decisions are made, most everyone will find that some portion of the budget which he felt was important will have been cut to a greater degree than he would like to have seen.

If street lights are turned off, some area business men and many area residents will say they are a necessity. Families with small children who frequently participate in the summer recreation program will be upset by cuts in that department. No one wants to see the police or fire department budgets reduced any more than is necessary and if cemetery funds are cut, the cost of graves is likely to increase. Each reduction in funds has some corresponding drawback.

When area residents begin to criticize which areas have suffered a reduction in funding, they must keep in mind that they demanded the cutbacks. Despite claims from many citizens that the past actions of City Council created a "credibility gap" between Council and the people, the hard fact is that voters turned down every possible source of revenue presented on the November ballot.

Council cannot be expected to maintain $888,786 worth of services on $754,292 incoming revenue. Whatever the reasons, voters have said, "Council, cut back the services you provide, and live within the budget we have given you."

Council will not be deciding if cuts should be made, the voters have made that decision themselves. Council's responsibility is to do its best to reach agreement on which departments can be trimmed to maintain the best possible service with the money available.

Their task is difficult, and it will require a great deal of compromise and cooperation among individuals who undoubtedly hold varying opinions as to which departments should receive priority.

As long as Council thoroughly analyzes the budget and makes an earnest effort to spend its money wisely, the citizens of Washington C.H. will have to be satisfied with service cuts they imposed on themselves at the polls.

GOLD AND SILVER DEPOSITORY — For 31 years, William D. House has been raking in the awards for his championship budgerigars, a type of bird somewhat resembling a parakeet, but possessing definite traits for judging on a 100-point basis.

Titles mounting for budgerigar champ

Area resident ranks first in nation in bird showing

By GEOFF MAVIS
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The birdman of Alcatraz has been dead for over 12 years. However, his enthusiastic enjoyment of birds as a hobby is a characteristic still very much alive in one Washington C. H. area resident who raises budgerigars for show.

Out of 25,000 breeders of the parakeet-like budgerigar, William D. House, Washington-Waterloo Road, has won more championship competitions with his birds than anyone else in the country. Many of his trophies, plaques, ribbons and certificates are displayed throughout his home, but over 600 awards are kept in storage.

House's record of winnings is so extensive that the American Budgerigar Society (ABS) may be able to save money on the cost of its trophies by having them made all at once, wholesale, and then sent yearly to the 51-year-old retired retail dealer. On occasion, House has managed to win all of the 10 regional budgerigar championships in one year, sometimes finishing first, second and third in a particular competition. He has won the annual ABS sweepstakes competition 24 out of his 31 years as a raiser of "budgies." The event is a sort of budgie world series where only the first, second and third place finishers of the 10 regional shows are allowed to compete.

Having taken up the hobby as a means to "keep from going crazy in the retail business," all of the glory does not seem to affect House much. He shuns publicity of his personal successes, and would rather focus attention on budgies as being an enjoyable hobby for everyone. "My main goal is to further promote the breeding of the budgerigar in the U.S., and to introduce many more people to such a good hobby-making bird," he stated.

One of the ways he achieves this desire is to breed only the best budgies for competition, and to look after each bird's health with great care.

In his basement, House currently has 100 budgies ranging in age from a few days to over four years, separated into different cages for breeding purposes and exercise requirements. The saying "Cleanliness is next to godliness" is a favorite of House's, and he illustrates the credo by keeping the cages spic and span, and the birds well cleaned and inspected daily for any signs of sickness.

The particular championship stock of budgies that now occupy and reproduce in House's special, mite-resistant, Maryland-made cages are the result of inbreeding from a line first started in 1950. At that time, a pair of budgies acquired from England, the traditional home of the bird, were first mated.

At the casual glance of an untrained eye, the budgie appears to be just another parakeet. But under closer inspection, even a layman will notice the superior markings, color and bearing of a championship budgie. It is the degree that these qualities and

Sinatra may testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee this week is expected to consider calling Frank Sinatra to testify about the relationship of President John F. Kennedy, Judith Campbell Exner and mobster Sam Giancana.

"I think the committee will be asked when it meets" to consider calling Sinatra as a witness, a committee source said Sunday night. The panel is scheduled to meet Tuesday.

Mrs. Exner has said Sinatra introduced her to Kennedy and to Giancana and John Rosselli, another underworld figure.

She said in a 10-page book outline released by a literary agent that she had an affair with Kennedy in the early 1960s and personal relationships with Giancana and Rosselli.

The Central Intelligence Agency enlisted Giancana and Rosselli in an effort to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. The Senate panel uncovered Mrs. Exner's relationship with Kennedy in trying to determine if Kennedy knew about the Castro assassination plot. It concluded he did not learn of it through Mrs. Exner.

However, the committee source said, "I don't think the staff is eager at this point to go back and open that up again. They feel they investigated the relationship in the first place — whether or not Sinatra had anything to offer in connection with the question of whether Kennedy was connected with the Castro plot."

The source added: "They decided then not to call him because it was doubtful he could add anything."

However, the source acknowledged there has been pressure for the committee to question Sinatra.

Martin Luther King holiday being noted across state

By The Associated Press

Today marks the first official Martin Luther King Day in Ohio, commemorating the 47th birthday of the slain Nobel Peace Prize winning-civil rights leader. Most public schools were closed along with all state offices, most other local government agencies and liquor stores.

The General Assembly enacted legislation last year providing the third Monday in January as a legal holiday in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

There were scattered official observances—the reading of a proclamation at Cincinnati's Fountain Square by the mayor to the dedication of a new dining facility at the Athens Mental Health and Retardation Center named for King.

The Ohio State University student government sponsored prayer services, the showing of a film and speakers Monday. The university was closed.

Also Monday, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which King founded, was to speak at Miami University. Also to speak on the program was the Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth of Cincinnati, regional vice president of People United to Save Humanity (PUSH).

The pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, the Rev. Dr. Joseph L. Roberts, was to speak at a convocation at Central State University at Wilberforce. Ebenezer Baptist Church was King's pastorate before he was killed.

While the schools were closed in Dayton, some 300 city employees were to work. Mayor James H. McGee said city workers waited too long to file petitions seeking the day off. McGee said he thought the city workers "just want a day off. If they really cared," he said, "they should have celebrated...on his real birthday (last Thursday)."

Some Dayton employees said they planned to take the day off anyway with what they termed "black fever."

For Super Bowl game

About 5,000 swindled out of grid tickets

MIAMI (AP) — Up to 5,000 football fans sulked in hotel rooms or threw themselves at the mercy of scalpers after learning they had been swindled out of Super Bowl tickets in a "too-good-to-be-true" package tour to Florida, police say.

"I can't believe I came all the way from Toronto, Canada, to watch the game from a lousy hotel," Matt Crone said Sunday after watching the game on television. "It sounded too good to be true at the beginning — a guaranteed ticket to the game. I guess it was too good."

Police said the swindle may amount to $1.5 million and involved fans who paid $375 to $800 for package tours with promises of a ticket to the Super Bowl game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys.

But there were no tickets, and police said the tour company officials disappeared.

A group calling itself Super Tours International and claiming to be associated with the International Travel Bureau contacted travel agents in several states and offered the package deals, police said.

Officials of ITB could not be reached for comment.

The fans were booked into several luxury hotels in Fort Lauderdale, Miami and Hollywood. Most of them got their rooms and transportation, but at least one group could find no accommodations and camped outside a hotel, police said.

Temper flared the most at the Fort Lauderdale Sheraton Hotel, where police had to quiet several hundred fans who learned shortly before the game that they had no tickets.

"I'm trying to celebrate the victory," a Steelers fan said later when Pittsburgh won 21-17. "But it's hard after peering at a tube for the afternoon."

Lottery prizes still unclaimed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Somewhere in or near Ohio, a dozen persons are unaware of their riches—and, in their ignorance, may lose fortunes of up to $300,000. Hundreds of others are about to lose lesser sums.

The Ohio Lottery Commission reported today that more than $2 million in prize money remains unclaimed.

Patty Hearst defense plan may center on lie testing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With her trial a week away, Patricia Hearst's attorneys today may try to introduce the results of a lie detector test to support her contention that death threats forced her to rob a bank, according to a published report.

Wayne Smith, an associate of defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, would not confirm or deny on Sunday the New York Daily News report.

"It's all being coordinated in San Francisco and will be released Monday," he said.

Smith also said the defense plans to file new motions to limit or prevent further interviews by Dr. Harry Kozol of Boston, a prosecution psychiatrist who Miss Hearst claims drove her to tears.

"The motions will be based on Kozol's background and why the prosecution selected him. I think you're going to see a lot of surprises," Smith said in a telephone interview from Boston.

State solons eye utility formula

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A swelling controversy over legislation that would change the way the state determines utility rates is expected to escalate on two fronts this week.

The bill will face critical amendments, beginning Tuesday in the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee.

Meanwhile, an impatient consumer group including the prime sponsor of the House bill, plans to take formal steps toward a statewide ballot vote on repeal of the current rate formula.

The House returns for floor action Tuesday with a vote on a bill that would permit townships to spend money promoting tourism. Across the Statehouse, the Senate has set a Tuesday vote on a House-passed measure that would set criminal penalties for pirating record albums or tapes.

Rep. Dennis Mojtjanowski, D-74 Willoughby, sponsor of the bill to abolish the current Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) rate base formula, said he had learned that utility lobbyists would attempt to insert an alternate plan.

By MIKE MOORE
Associated Press Writer

Hubert H. Humphrey, a non-candidate who many observers see leading the crowded field of Democratic candidates seeking their party's presidential nomination, is stepping up his political tempo.

Humphrey drew record crowds on a weekend Missouri tour that comes on the threshold of Iowa's first steps to select delegates to the 1976 nominating conventions. That begins tonight; the first state primary will be New Hampshire's on Feb. 24.

Meanwhile, four announced hopefuls for the Democrats' top spot pointed to unemployment as a key issue to score with the voters. In a Sunday television appearance, the four called for guarantees of jobs for all.

Ex-AEC chief fears atom proliferation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission today urged that the United States immediately halt exports of all nuclear devices and material to reduce the dangers of worldwide nuclear proliferation.

David E. Lilienthal, who served as the AEC's first chairman after it was formed in 1947, told a Senate subcommittee that "we, the United States, our public agencies and our private manufacturers, have been and are the world's major proliferators" of nuclear technology.

He contended that despite American efforts to control the spread of nuclear weapons and materials which could be diverted to weapons use, "the tragic fact is that the atomic arms race is today proceeding at a more furious and a more insane pace than ever."

"Proliferation of capabilities to produce nuclear weapons of mass destruction is reaching terrifying proportions," said Lilienthal, now head of Development and Resources Corp. based in New York.

He said that "we should not be overly impressed by the morally indefensible doctrine that if we do not continue to supply these potentially deadly materials and this technology, other countries will do so."

Lilienthal conceded that it would be difficult to predict fully just what would result from a U.S. embargo on export of nuclear technology, facilities and materials.

And California was the major scene of the Republican battle, with the campaign managers for President Ford and challenger Ronald Reagan each predicting his man will triumph in the early primaries.

Humphrey, the man who isn't running but says he will accept the nomination if it is offered to him by the convention, took swipes at both Ford and Reagan during his Midwest swing.

The senator from Minnesota, appearing at an affair to honor retiring Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in Columbia, Mo., Saturday, drew 1,800 faithful, which some claimed set a record for Democrats in the state.

The 64-year-old former vice president also attended a Sunday brunch for Symington's son, Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., and later

"But what is the alternative?" he asked. "Our experience in international negotiations on the whole has so far been a sad one. If we show that we mean business, it may very well improve."

The Senate government operations subcommittee, chaired by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, is considering legislation which would tighten controls on U.S. nuclear exports.

Also testifying before the panel was Hans A. Bethe, professor emeritus of physics at Cornell University and winner of the Nobel prize in 1967.

Bethe, who headed the theoretical physics division at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory during World War II development of the atomic bomb, called for a prohibition on sale of so-called fast breeder reactors to countries not already possessing nuclear technology.

Breeder reactors, producing more nuclear fuel than they consume, generate considerable amounts of plutonium which can be diverted relatively easily for use in atomic weapons.

Bethe also urged a ban on export of sophisticated facilities for separation of various isotopes of uranium and plutonium — or even the blueprints for such facilities.

However, the Nobel laureate did not advocate a total embargo on all nuclear exports, such as conventional power reactors.

All-out holy war urged in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslems called for all-out holy war against the Christians in Lebanon today in the wake of Moslem Premier Rashid Karami's resignation.

"Believers are called upon by their religious duty to rise in arms for jihad (holy war) to defend their attacked brethren," the muzeins shouted through bullhorns at dawn from their needle-shaped minarets.

Loudspeaker vans toured Moslem quarters of Beirut repeating the call.

Fierce fighting between rightwing Christians and leftist Lebanese Moslems and Palestinians raged through the night in Beirut and areas outside the capital. Police reported 102 more persons killed in the city and its suburbs.

Karami resigned after the warring factions ignored another of his cease-fire calls. Local papers said President Suleiman Franjeh was planning to form a military government to replace Karami's six-man coalition of Christian and Moslems.

Franjeh installed a military government last May, a month after the civil war started, but pressure from most of the civilian politicians forced it to resign after three days. Another military government probably would run into the same opposition, particularly from the Moslems, since most of the officers are Christians.

Karami said in a broadcast he was passing responsibility for the country to the Christian president "to take whatever steps he thinks proper."

Karami, a 53-year-old millionaire, became premier in June with a pledge to end the civil war. He negotiated more than a dozen cease-fires, but all collapsed, and the nine-month death toll is now estimated at more than 8,500.

Police reported house-to-house fighting throughout the night in a fire-gutted Moslem pocket in eastern Beirut and a besieged Christian enclave in south Lebanon.

The whole of Beirut was illuminated during the night by huge fires in the Moslem slum area of Karantina, on the eastern edge of the city's harbor.

The district has been under attack by right-wing Christian militiamen for more than 24 hours.

drew 1,700 to a Kansas City forum sponsored by Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo. Aides said that was a record for the meetings that were begun three years ago.

Humphrey said Reagan's statement that citizens unhappy with a state's management can "vote with your feet" by moving away is "the most callous, brutal, political statement I've heard in the 20th century."

Of Ford's policy in Angola, Humphrey said, "If we can't learn the lesson we had in Vietnam, we're too dumb to be a world power."

The California Republican campaigning was primarily waged in Sacramento by campaign managers addressing GOP volunteers. Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, who heads the Reagan effort, said there is "no major difference" in political philosophy between Ford and Reagan.

But Reagan has the unique ability to go over the heads of Democrats in control of Congress and use television to get his views to the public, Laxalt maintained.

Howard Callaway, Ford's chairman, told the same group that Ford's State of the Union address tonight will make sense to the American people. Both Callaway and Laxalt predicted victory in the same early Republican primaries.

Four announced Democrats met on NBC's "Meet the Press," where Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen declared, "I'd rather spend taxpayers' money for someone working than not working."

Echoing support for guaranteed jobs were Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Sanford, in his first appearance since being hospitalized for chest pains last weekend, said his health is excellent following a week's rest. He called for action to improve neighborhoods through housing and rent subsidies.

Jackson said he feels detente should be a major issue, with the U.S. using its economic power to keep the Soviets out of Angola. He called for use of U.S. grain sales, technology exports and other economic tactics to squeeze the Russians out of the African state.

Udall said he would seek to bring the races together to work out a solution to school desegregation busing. He criticized Jackson's plan that three-judge panels be required before busing can be imposed, noting that all busing orders have been appealed to such panels and have been upheld.

The nation's political focus turns to Iowa tonight as 85,000 Democrats and Republicans start the task of choosing candidates for president. Caucuses — meetings in each of the state's 2,617 voting precincts — will be held for voters to make known their preferences.

State aides for all say that no clear-cut choice is likely to emerge. "Our telephone surveys are turning up a large uncommitted vote — 50 to 60 percent," said the Iowa leader for Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana.

If the polls and the political pundits are correct, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Bayh will gather the most support in the caucuses, with the other Democrats clustered in the "pack."

Carter, Bayh, Udall, Jackson, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Sargent Shriver of Maryland have expended a total of 80 days and about $125,000 stumping in Iowa in the last four months.

In Miami campaigning for the March 9 Florida primary, Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp sharply criticized Ford's proposal to raise Social Security taxes as a move that will "take billions of dollars" from working people and be a boon for the rich.

"The President doesn't seem to understand that almost all money taken from the pockets of low-income families is money withdrawn from the purchasing power and has immediate negative impact on the economy," the Democratic governor said.

An aide to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, speaking of the March 23 North Carolina primary, said, "Our approach is one of increasing our margin of victory — we know we're going to win."

others are present within a bird that determine how many points out of a hundred that he will receive at a competition.

House raises particular types of budgies known as light greens, grey greens, sky blues, greys, and cinnamons.

After he has selected a young bird possessing good hereditary characteristics, House must then train the bird to perform well during its judging in a show. To keep the bird in a steady, unflinching posture on its perch, House works daily with the trainee, talking to it, and using a stick to keep it in one position. During a show, the bird must be able to withstand constant proddings by a judge who marks off points at the sign of a flaw.

To make sure that a championship budgie will not be loaned out for use by another owner, enabling him to win illegally, each bird after only a few days of life is required to have a closed, seamless, reinforced aluminum band attached around its leg. The band identifies the owner by means of a particular ABS coding.

House has a few ideas on how he will conduct his hobby in the future. He plans to expand the operation by enlarging his aviary to include 350 budgerigars, and he also wants to do more extensive judging.

House is also a championship rabbit breeder and has won many competitions in this area. His "hare raising" has won him prizes from all over the nation, but this is another story and a long one at that.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, churning in the midst of profit taking pressures.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.50 at 928.13, but gainers maintained a 5-3 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted a favorable response to continued declines in some key interest rates. But they said that influence was being offset by more of the profit taking that interrupted the market's rally several times last week.

Gulf & Western Industries was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 22 3/4 in a 100,000-share block trade.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .04 to 51.37. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 92.32.

Volume on the Big Board continued heavy.

Butz sees rural backing for President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz says he thinks President Ford's reelection prospects in the farm belt are good.

Butz said he thinks Ford's action interrupting wheat sales to Russia last summer turned out positively for agriculture.

Butz, speaking at a news conference prior to a fund-raising dinner for U.S. Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, said he realizes the nation's farmers are still upset over Ford's action, but noted: "We had no assurances the crop was going to be good," when the embargo was imposed.

Latta said over the weekend that he and Republican leaders from Ohio's Fifth Congressional District were withholding endorsement of Ford to see what develops in the New Hampshire presidential primary.

The Russians had purchased 9.8 million tons of wheat from the 1975 crop prior to the Ford-ordered embargo. Butz said, and have purchased an additional 6.3 million tons since it was lifted.

Butz was optimistic regarding the 1976 farm picture, citing "a good growing market and good export prospects."

Butz said "great turnarounds" have been made in agriculture in the last four years, citing reduction in money spent on storing crops and an increase in net farm income from $17.5 billion in 1970 to an expected $25 billion in 1976, and less government involvement in farm operations.

Concerning the possible abandonment of numerous rail lines under the U.S. Railway Association's Conrail proposal and the effect on grain transportation, Butz expressed concern for the effect on farmers, but said "some rail lines should be abandoned" if the country is to have "a viable rail system."

HAPPY NEW YEAR

By SANDY WOODMANSEE
Welcome to 1976! And to start the new year off right, the Fayette County Pilot's Association will be holding its first meeting at the airport at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, January 20.

Along with the introduction of the newly elected officers, there will be a business and planning meeting so all members and prospective members are urged to attend. Don't forget, you don't have to be a pilot to belong - just a sincere interest in aviation and the Fayette County Airport. We need all of you to make this a successful year. Coffee and refreshments will be served.

The 1976 officers are as follows: John Woodmansee, president, Mike Putnam, vice president, Ruth Pfaff, secretary, Bob Wilson, treasurer, and Maurice Hopkins, program chairman.

Some incoming aircraft have been a Navajo from Lexington, a couple of helicopters, a Cessna 310 from Akron, a Cessna 421 from Pennsylvania, K-D Tool's Aerostar and many smaller aircraft. Student accomplishments have included Al Allridge who has graduated from the Commercial course and received his commercial pilot's rating. Steve Gilliland has received his multi-engine rating, Ron Walker and Don Simonton completed cross countries and Ron Ballard flew to Kansas City with John and Mark Workman went along for the ride.

Other pilots in the news have been Bill Dennis, Millard French, Rudy LeBeau, Jack Patton, John Hopkins, Bill DaRif, Mark Merritt, Mike Thompson, Don Munzer, Jeanette Young, Pat Piper, Jim Roberds, Bob Meenach, Mark Pitstick, Larry East,

Bleak financial outlook pictured

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of the financial health of the states indicates that most states "face an increasingly bleak fiscal future" with spending increases outpacing increases in income.

"With few exceptions, state surpluses of previous years are gone," a statement with the survey reported. "Governors and legislatures, many of whom have already taken dramatic belt-tightening measures, are faced with further tax increases or spending cuts or both to keep their budgets in balance."

The 37-state survey found that estimated revenue for fiscal 1976 will increase 8 per cent. Expenditures are expected to reach $71 billion and revenue will total only $67.7 billion.

"This appears to indicate that the effects of the recession more than offset the revenue growth attributable to inflation," the report said.

"When you don't have the money, you have to raise taxes or cut spending, just when the recession demands that you do the reverse," said James Martin, deputy director of the National Governors Conference, which sponsored the survey.

In the statement, the organization said the study also indicated: —The fiscal picture in energy-producing and agricultural states is more favorable than in heavily industrial states, where unemployment has been high.

—Welfare and Medicaid payments, driven up by recession, brought about major spending increases in fiscal 1975.

—The rate of increase in state government expenditures has been leveled by budget-balancing efforts of governors and legislatures in the current fiscal year.

—States are spending dollars earmarked for capital expenditures on current operations.

"To the extent that states had surpluses in any real sense, they have virtually disappeared," the statement said.

Random is the word

Let's just run through the alphabet a minute to see in what sequence the candidates' names will appear on the ballot: K, Q, U, B, C, N, L... and so on. That sequence of letters, continuing in similarly unpredictable fashion, will determine the order of candidates' names in California city elections on March 2. "Unpredictable" is the operative word. This is a random alphabet, drawn from a box by the secretary of state to apply to the March 2 elections only. The process will be repeated for later elections.

This new dispensation is the result of a California Supreme Court ruling that ballot placement on the basis of the regular alphabet did not meet the law's randomness test. Hence, new alphabets from time to time.

Silly as it may sound, this is a sensible idea. Though the problem is not of crucial importance, under some circumstances placement on the ballot may have a significant effect. The random alphabet system is fair to all candidates.

A WORD EDGEWISE... By John P. Roche

The Boston school war

One of the fundamental rules for exercising authority is not to push your luck. Every smart politician instinctively realizes that whatever his theoretical power may be - there is a time to behave with prudence. I vividly recall President Johnson exhorting a Cabinet Secretary to Harry McPherson and me: He set out the bureaucrat's deficiencies, discussed his ancestry, and then (having gotten some therapy) said mournfully, "What am I gonna do? Of course, I can fire him, but that would give me more problems than I got now. Herblock would have me nailing him to a cross."

Recent developments in the Boston

School War strike me as a case in point. My position on busing as expressed here and elsewhere over the past decades is somewhat eccentric. I have no time for all that sentimental nonsense about the charming neighborhood school. Our daughter had a longer bus ride twice a day than anyone in Boston to get to our friendly community school. The important consideration, however, was that when she climbed off the bus there was a first-class public school at her disposal. In short, busing can be a vital component in education, but it is pointless to ship youngsters back and forth from one lousy school to another.

BEFORE THE STORM

The situation in Boston before Federal District Judge W. Arthur Garrity began hurling his thunderbolts was roughly this: In several working-class neighborhoods with distinct ethnic characteristics (black, Irish, Italian) there were inferior schools. Segregation was de facto, not created by law, and it is fair to say that it did not keep the School Committee awake nights. Back when civil rights was the "in" thing, the legislature had made a novena, passing a racial imbalance law - but this was purely cosmetic piety. Nobody expected anyone to try to enforce it.

This indifference set the stage for Judge Garrity's initial moves, which struck me as thoroughly justified. In effect he zinged the School Committee and by doing so brought the whole question of public education in Boston into public focus. In other words the segregation questions could have been the instrument for a thorough reappraisal of the quality of the Boston schools. Instead the School Committee, in what amounted to sheer demagoguery, started denouncing the judge and all the other outsiders who were trying to destroy the spirit of community.

In fairness to Garrity, he gave them plenty of time to come up with an adequate proposal (which in my judgment should have included closing both South Boston and Roxbury high schools on their educational demerits), but the persistent stalling obviously got on his judicial nerves. At just about this time anyone with good political radar would have sat back and waited a while - the citizens of Boston are not Yahoos, and divisions of opinion on the school problem were emerging with increasing emphasis on the need for quality.

FORGOTTEN EDUCATION.

But the judge blew his cool and, to make a long story short, launched a policy of escalation which has now reached the point where he may end up personally hiring headmasters, teachers and custodians in the Boston school system. The newly elected School Committee has not been given any opportunity to show whether it would break with the past traditions and cooperate. The worst fact of all is that what should be the issue - education - has now vanished from the confrontation. What is now the order of the day is, "Who runs this place?" The elected officials, or some appointed judge with life tenure, no political responsibility and a cozy home in the suburbs?

There can be no winners in this struggle, but plenty of losers, first among whom are the kids of Boston - black, white, or polka dot. Second, of course, the authority of the judiciary has been undermined by what the Boston Herald (which had previously supported him) called Garrity's wild "overkill." Third, all sorts of tribal impulses, most of which have fortunately been muted over the years, have gotten a new lease on life. Finally, it is clear to me that as long as Judge Garrity exercises jurisdiction there can be no solution, only a blood feud. In the interests of all parties, he should step aside and ask the U.S. Circuit Court to replace him with a judge who has not been identified with the issue, has no scars, and can bring focus back to education.

Ohio Perspective

Consumer protection legislation pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The man on the other end of the telephone line was a debt collector, and he was out to collect his money any way he could.

A sharp, loud noise resembling gunfire sounded.

"Did you hear that?" the collector asked the terrified debtor, "That's your warning."

That exchange was one example cited by Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Tongren, chief of the consumer crimes and frauds division, of why Ohio's four-year-old Consumer Sales Practices Act needs strengthening.

Under the law as it now stands, Tongren said, such harrasing tactics are legal.

Ohio's present consumer law forbids "deceptive" practices. But, Tongren said, "There have been many practices which are 'unfair' but not necessarily 'deceptive.' Numerous consumer complaints have been received regarding debt collection practices which fall within this category."

In another case, he said, a woman informed a debt collector she was unable to make payments because she was on welfare and ill. The collector began calling her hospital room following her surgery.

But he said the problem applies to more than debt collectors. One example in Ohio is the "missing heir" scheme.

A Mrs. Douglas received a letter telling her that for $19, she could receive information on the inheritance of another Douglas who might be related, Tongren said.

"The letter failed to inform the consumer that thousands of other Douglasses received the same pitch, and that she could obtain the same information for free by contacting the Unclaimed Funds Agency," Tongren said.

Tongren gave the examples while testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering legislation to expand the consumer sales act to include unfair practices.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Man says marriages would last longer if arranged

DEAR ABBY: You're wrong when you say that a person can't learn to love someone.

In the old country, the marriages were arranged by the parents or a matchmaker, and those marriages were more solid than our modern marriages are.

In China, Japan and India, marriages were arranged while the children were growing up. The couple learned to love each other, and you never heard of divorce.

Here, a couple of dizzy kids decide they're "in love", and before you know it, they're married. Then they have a baby or two, and discover that their "love" has worn off, so their parents have to help raise the babies while they get a divorce and start looking around for somebody else to fall in love with.

I'll bet if we went back to the old system of arranged marriages, we'd have a lot fewer divorces.

SINGLE AND STRAIGHT

DEAR SINGLE: A return to "arranged marriages" as a move to reduce divorce is as plausible and logical as returning to mutilation and torture to cut back crime. Both are remnants of a grisly past, imperfectly remembered.

DEAR ABBY: There must be thousands of women in my position, so if you have an answer for me, please print it and help all of us.

I am married to a man who has children by a previous marriage. I love his children and they love me. The problem is their mother.

On occasions such as first communions, birthdays, weddings, etc., she makes it clear to me that I am not welcome, and that if I attend, she will leave.

Naturally, I stay away. When the children ask me why I didn't come I say that I was "ill". I don't want to tell them the truth because it would only cause trouble.

Maybe lots of women will see themselves in this letter and decide to be big enough to let their husband's present wives share in their children's celebrations. We love their children, too.

EXCLUDED

DEAR EXCLUDED: Here's your letter. I hope it helps.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a good-natured mother-in-law who insists on cooking a large elaborate dinner on holidays for the same crowd year after year? I begged her to let me cook Thanksgiving dinner this year and she downright refused! I love to entertain and she knows it, but she gave me the excuse of "you don't have enough room" and "I have more time than you" (since I work.)

She is the best mother-in-law a girl could ever ask for, in more ways than one, but I think this is going too far. I would love to give her a relaxing holiday just once so she could enjoy herself also. (Maybe she does not think I could handle it (my husband and I have been married for one and a half years) but I've entertained as many as 25 before!

Abby, I know she reads your column faithfully so maybe you could suggest that enough is enough?

MOUSE

DEAR MOUSE: Your mother-in-law obviously "enjoys herself" being in command of the holiday feasts.

Demonstrate your dinner skills for others and let your "good-natured" mother-in-law have a good time-her way.

Counselor's corner

January marks the end of the first semester on Friday, Jan. 23, and the commencement of the second semester on Jan. 26. All students must be sure to meet each of their individual requirements and goals.

Seniors who are college-bound and interested in financial aid should have all financial aid applications finalized by the end of January. The Counselors' Office has now received the O.I.G. (Ohio Instructional Grant) applications, and should receive the B.E.O.G. (Basic Educational Opportunity Grant) at any time now.

Especially important at this time are the financial aid applications from the specific college. For example, if a student applying to the Ohio State University for September of 1976 has completed the Parents Confidential Statement, O.I.G., and B.E.O.G., but has not obtained and completed a financial aid application from the Ohio State University itself, the student will be ineligible for some types of financial aids. Student loans, student work-study programs, and some scholarships are available only by filing a financial aid application obtained from the university a student is planning to attend.

A poem

Last night as I climbed in bed
I began to think of all the things ahead.
I realized how my life had just begun.
And all the things I could possibly get done.

I really do feel,
That you ought to realize,
Just what you're here for,
And where your future lies.

Remember your high school years,
Try to make the best of them,
For they're only here once,
And you'll wish they were here again.

Take your studies seriously,
Don't be a fool.
Cause believe me you'll regret it,
Trying to be cool.

Accept responsibility now,
While you're still in school,
Because it's twice as hard after you get out.
To learn the Golden Rule.

Take my word, friend,
You'll see.
It's easier to learn now,
Than after you're eighteen.

Chopped beef is ingredient

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

The theme is chopped beef. Very versatile and relatively economical, it lends itself to many treatments. Let today's recipes get you thinking about variations on this budget-wise theme:

Chopped beef sparked with chili powder and served with cheese-flavored noodles adds up to a one-dish dinner that's unusually good:

CHILI BEEF AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

- 2 tablespoons corn oil
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 (1 pound, 13-ounce) can tomatoes
- 1/2 cup dark corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf

- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 (8-ounce) package wide noodles, cooked and drained
- 1 cup shredded cheese

In large skillet, heat corn oil over medium heat. Add onion and green pepper; saute, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add beef; brown lightly. Drain 1/4 cup tomato liquid and reserve. Add tomatoes and remaining tomato liquid, corn syrup, salt, chili powder, pepper and bay leaf to beef mixture. Bring to boil; cover and simmer 15 minutes.

Mix cornstarch with remaining 1/4 cup tomato liquid. Stir into mixture in skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute.

Arrange alternate layers of noodles, sauce and cheese in 11 3/4 x 7 1/2 x 1 3/4-inch baking dish. Bake in 350 F. oven 30 minutes or until hot and bubble.

Makes 6 servings.

Here's another way to combine beef and noodles. This time out, the beef is browned, then simmered in wine and bouillon, when it's combined with cooked noodles, and sour cream is mixed in, making a very delicious dish:

BEEF-NODDLE SKILLET WITH SOUR CREAM

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
- 1/4 cup dry red wine
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 1 cup water
- 2 cups wide noodles, uncooked
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- Paprika

Melt butter; add beef, onion, garlic and mushrooms. Saute, stirring with fork to break up meat, until beef loses its red color. Add wine, lemon juice, bouillon cubes, and water. Simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Add noodles, cover, and simmer for 15 minutes, adding more water if necessary. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir in sour cream and heat over low flame. Sprinkle with paprika.

Makes 4 servings.

Nika Hazelton, the grande dame of cuisine, has a cooking rule from which she never deviates: Every meal, she says, should have one dish for which the cook is praised. In her new book with Marjorie Blanchard, "What Shall I Cook Today?" (Bobbs-Merrill), Nika suggests menus and recipes for every day of the year. Among the dishes she puts in the sure-to-bring-praise category is this soufflé with chopped beef. She suggests you serve a molded vegetable salad and, for dessert, canned peaches and cupcakes with:

William Horney Chapter, DAR, observes 50th anniversary

William Horney Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Jeffersonville, observed its 50th anniversary with a noon luncheon with guests, on Jan. 14 in the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, with 80 members and guests presents. A prelude of organ selections by Mrs. Kenneth Spahr preceded the luncheon.

As each registered, she received a program book with as attractive '50' and motifs in gold on the front cover, and a pin-on with '50' in gold on a circle of white net with blue ribbon on the back. Lovely corsages of yellow roses were presented to the state regent, Mrs. Merritt S. Huber, and Mrs. Louis Ulen, Regent. The past regents received corsages of a single yellow carnation.

A cordial welcome was extended to the members of the Chapter and guests by the Rev. Eugene Griffith, pastor of the church.

Prior to the luncheon, the group passed through the receiving line to greet State Regent, Mrs. Huber and distinguished state officers.

Places were found in the dining room at tables centered with lovely lanterns and gold candles. African violets were placed at vantage spots on the tables. The guest table was centered with a two-tiered white birthday cake trimmed with yellow roses, and a gold '50' topped the cake. The Rev. Mr. Griffith gave the invocation.

Following the three course luncheon, the ladies assembled in the sanctuary for the chapter meeting. Richard Glass, music director, introduced the Miami Trace Folksingers, who sang "Grand Old Flag" by George Cohan.

Mrs. Louis Ulen, Regent, opened the meeting in ritualistic form, assisted by Mrs. Harold Cline, chaplain, protem, in the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. G. Max Morrow. Mrs. Otis Thompson, flag chairman, led the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Earl Glass led the first stanza of the National Anthem, with Mrs. Spahr at the organ. The American's Creed was read by the group.

The distinguished guests were recognized by the Regent, and introduced, stating her office in the Ohio Society, DAR. Members and guests were given warm greetings.

Miss Helen Fults, national defense chairman, read, "TV-Fourth Branch of Government?" by Alice Widener, from the National Defender, NSDAR. Mrs. Earl Glass, historian, gave a brief history of the chapter's 50 years.

Mrs. W. W. Williams and Mrs. E. F. McKee, charter members, were introduced and presented corsages of yellow roses and their fifty-year pins. Mrs. Robert Rhodes of Fort Myers, Fla., also a charter member, was unable to attend. Mrs. Howard Burnett, Sr., accepted the pin for her. Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, a past regent, made the presentations.

Mrs. Merritt S. Huber, state regent, the guest speaker, spoke of "The Activities of the Daughters." Mrs. Huber brought greetings to the chapter on the occasion of their 50th anniversary from the Ohio Society, DAR.

The honorary state regents and other honored guests spoke briefly, congratulating the chapter. The Regent expressed her appreciation to all who had assisted her in making the special day most memorable, and adjourned the meeting.

An arrangement of red and white carnation, in a blue container, was sent to the chapter from Mrs. W. W. Williams. A bouquet of yellow roses was sent in memory of the deceased members. These roses were later given to the members present.

Guests present were Mrs. Wallace B. Hise of Cleveland; Mrs. Harvey Minton of Worthington; and Mrs. Charles Petree of Columbus, honorary state regents; Mrs. Merritt Huber, of Bettlesville, state regent; Mrs. C. Gray Hussey of Columbus, chaplain; Mrs. H. E. Kitzmiller of Lancaster, recording secretary; Mrs. E. William Montor, of Cincinnati, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ralph Acton of Blanchester, organizing secretary; Mrs. Deane Powell of Washington C. H., treasurer; Mrs. Charles W. Ellis, Washington C. H., registrar; Mrs. H. H. Haworth of Wilmington, historian; and Miss Dorothy Street of West Jefferson, Southwest director; all state officers.

Also Mrs. Harold Slagle, Regent; Mrs. John Sagar, Mrs. Marvin Rosmann, Miss Elizabeth Trent, Mrs. Gilbert Crouse, Mrs. John Fent, Mrs. Faye Mayo and Mrs. Colin C. Campbell, members of the Washington Chapter, DAR; and Mrs. Albert Struene, Regent; Mrs. Harry Pommer, Mrs. Dorothy Burnett, Mrs. U. B. According to the petition and a statement signed by the defendant, he falsified grain records and converted funds in the amount of $23,424 to his own use. # Sanford pushes jobs-for-all plan

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford is pushing a jobs-for-all proposal as the keynote of his Democratic presidential campaign, saying the government should provide work for any American who can't find it otherwise.

But he acknowledges he'd have to settle for a more limited, less expensive plan at the outset. And he does not have specifics on how he would finance even a limited jobs program, although he says budget deficits are inevitable until full employment is reached.

Sanford, 58, was called one of the first of the New South governors when he steered a moderate course for North Carolina in the racially turbulent days of 1961-65. State law barred a second term.

Four years later, he became president of Duke University. He kept his hand in Democratic politics and staged a late and unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination in 1972.

Sanford has characterized his full employment policy as a radical alternative to the "immoral and counterproductive" policies of the Ford administration, which he accuses of trying to fight inflation by putting people out of work.

He believes that full employment — a job for everyone who wants to work — should be the overriding goal of federal economic policy. He says he favors making government the employer of last resort, using federal grants to state and local governments for projects like railroad bed improvements and environmental protection construction.

When pressed for specifics, Sanford said his initial goal would be more modest than such a sweeping guarantee of jobs. He said he would ask for $7 billion in federal job money in the first year, which he estimated would provide jobs for about 10 per cent of those currently unemployed.

(The Labor Department reported an unemployment rate of 8.3 per cent during December, with 7.8 million Americans unable to find jobs. Ten per cent of this figure is 780,000 and $7 billion works out to an expenditure of almost $9,000 per person, a figure economists generally say is reasonable for the cost of creating a job.)

Sanford did not say how he proposes to come up with the $7 billion, but he said that federal budget deficits are inevitable until there is full employment.

He also said the defense budget could be pared. Sanford thinks $15 billion could have been cut from the President Ford's recommended defense budget for fiscal 1976. Sanford said the cuts could be made "not by drastically eliminating programs, but going through it line by line and cutting out the fat."

(Ford proposed a defense budget of $94 billion; Congress has not yet approved a final defense spending plan, but legislation now pending provides for cuts of about $7.5 billion in Ford's requests, half of what Sanford would have cut.)

Man freed by mistake?

CLEVELAND (AP)—Convicted safecracker Phillip Christopher is on his way back to prison while federal parole authorities try to find out how he got out of prison after serving only three years for his part in a $7 million burglary of a California bank.

Christopher, who was living at a Salvation Army halfway house and working at the Board of Elections, was picked up by federal marshals Saturday after details of his release pending parole were published in a newspaper story.

Maurice Sigler, chairman of the U.S. Parole Board in Washington, said the board will review the case and, if necessary, investigate to see why Christopher was paroled so early.

The Plain Dealer quoted Sigler as saying, "We've apparently made a mistake" and that he could not understand how, with a 20-year-sentence, Christopher could be paroled after three years.

The burglary at the United California Bank branch four years ago was the biggest ever recorded in this country. Officials say $3.5 million of the loot in bonds, cash and jewels still has not been recovered, and they believe Christopher knows where it is.

The average physician in Ohio around the middle 1800's had to be satisfied with a quarter or a half dollar for a visit.

Friends rally to rebuild home

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — John Payne may not have much money, but he's rich in friends.

Two weeks ago, the Tipp City resident lost just about everything he owned when his home was burned out by a fire.

But his friends rallied to his aid and have begun to rebuild the single-story frame home.

Robert Penrod, of Piqua, one of Payne's fellow workers at the A.O. Smith Co. in Tipp City, and about 60 volunteers, most them Smith employees, have pledged to rebuild Payne's home.

"John didn't have a penny's worth of fire insurance and he's disabled, so that's when you need friends," said Penrod, who is a part-time licensed contractor.

Payne, who has a wife and two daughters, is on sick leave from Smith. Penrod said about 15 suppliers from all over the area are donating free materials to the project, which he estimated would cost about $10,000.

Harris urges breakup of big companies

BY MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris advocates price controls on the oil, steel and automobile industries as the way to fight inflation while he seeks to break up the nation's largest corporations.

Harris contends that America's largest industries have monopolistic power, and he says he would seek to split them apart for the sake of economic competition and to curb consumer prices. He claims that heightened competition would put to work marketplace forces that would curb prices and lead to more production and more jobs.

Harris proposes a mix of antitrust action, government price ceilings and public service jobs as his answer to economic woes. The plan is couched in general, theoretical terms. It does not include specific revenue-raising proposals to cover projected spending to create jobs or the other economic programs he wants to introduce.

Harris said if he becomes president he will ask Congress for the power to control prices — but not wages.

Government figures show that between November 1973 and November 1975 the consumer price index rose by 20.3 per cent while average hourly wages went up 16.1 per cent.

Harris claims those statistics are evidence that wage controls would not be needed.

Yet under his plan, there would be no limits on what unions could demand in wages from industries whose prices would be government-controlled.

The former Oklahoma senator, making his second bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, also said if he succeeds, his administration would go after "shared monopolies" by challenging them in court and by seeking new antitrust laws.

He defines a shared monopoly as a situation in which four or fewer corporations control 70 per cent of an industry.

He also attacks oil companies that control gasoline production from the well to the service station pump. Harris contends if different companies controlled the various stages of production, the resulting competition would inevitably drive down prices.

The oil companies would also be prevented from controlling production of competing fuels such as coal, Harris said, and that also would tend to lower prices.

Harris said in an interview that there should be a $28-billion tax cut in 1976, but only for individual taxpayers, not for businesses.

That would be $15 billion higher than the break individual taxpayers are getting this year. Harris said he would offset the cut by imposing higher taxes on large corporations and on the wealthy, but neither he nor his advisers could spell out specific measures or their potential revenues.

"We have one-third idle plant capacity, primarily because consumers don't have enough money," Harris said. "A tax cut is particularly necessary now to offset new price increases which otherwise would take money out of the economy and further slow recovery."

Harris said temporary price controls on some industries are needed until price competition is restored.

"In our economy," he said, "unemployment does not tend to bring down prices, it tends to force them up.... Because of monopoly control, industries such as the automobile industry are allowed to act to the detriment of both workers and consumers and, in the face of falling demand, lay off workers and reduce production, but make up for lost profits by increased prices consumers must pay."

Harris said his restructuring of the economy would eventually lower the unemployment rate. He says that as the economy reacts to increased competition, prices will decline. In addition, he says, consumers will have more spending money in hand because of tax cuts. Harris says increased demand for lower priced consumer products will lead to increased production and more jobs.

For those still unemployed, Harris would establish a permanent reservoir of two million locally controlled public service jobs in health care, day care centers, transportation and environmental clean-up projects at an estimated annual cost of $6.4 billion.

"We ought to commit the country to full employment and mean it," he said.

The Harris economic plan is without specific proposals for financing the measures he wants to take.

For example, Harris has no proposal for financing his jobs program, saying only that revenues will increase when the economy picks up.

Harris maintains that over-all there would be little net increase in federal expenses under his proposals because higher spending would be offset by increased tax revenues as the economic situation improves and people get back to work.

That is a common theme among Democrats, who base it on estimates that each one percent of unemployment costs the government $15 billion in lost revenues and increased social welfare costs.

But that theme remains a theory without proof in practice.

Farm Bureau makes The Difference

What difference has it made for you?

A $20,000 combine may harvest beans and corn efficiently, but it also represents a large investment that is now exempt from personal tax. Ohio farmers save $40 million yearly as a result of Farm Bureau's efforts.

2

Farm truck license, originally initiated by Farm Bureau, saves farmers nearly one half of the cost of a commercial license for farm trucks. An $8,000 lb. commercial truck license costs $152 and a farm license costs only $80. You save $72.

3

Farmers save nearly $4 an acre in state sales tax on production supplies for corn. This could mean a savings of nearly a hundred dollars on 25 acres.

4

Farmers save various amounts on real estate taxes, but that savings is even more because of the 10 per cent roll back. On a former $1,600 tax bill that savings would be $160. The agricultural appraisal provision saves many farmers over $1,000 a year. One Wood County farmer in a total agricultural area saved $940 on his 139 acre farm. His land was valued at $1,137 an acre, but after being appraised at agricultural value he was taxed on a $658 value per acre. Many farmers own land appraised in excess of $3,000, and for them the agricultural appraisal provision will mean a great savings. Farm Bureau led the way on this issue.

5

County law enforcement personnel say there are fewer crimes committed on farms with Farm Bureau's $500 property protection service signs posted. We'll let you put a value on reducing the chances of a thief stealing your property.

6

Ohio farmers save about $120 annually in personal property tax on a $8,000 tractor. At the time of original purchase, $320 in state sales tax was also saved, because Farm Bureau went to bat for its members.

7

The agricultural gas tax exemption remains important to Ohio agriculture. A farmer using 2,000 gallons of gasoline could receive a refund of $140. Federal tax credit on the same amount would total $80. With sky-rocketing fuel costs every penny saved helps.

8

Personal property tax savings on a 35 head dairy herd amounts to more than $200 annually. Farm Bureau played a key role in eliminating the personal property tax.

You benefit many times the cost of your Farm Bureau membership dues. Farm Bureau is continually working in the legislature to make your money go further.

Award presented at annual meeting

Soil, water district 'superior'

The Fayette County Soil and Water Conservation District was awarded the rating of superior in the 1975 Ohio Federation of Soil and Water Conservation Districts distinctive service awards program.

Edgar Agle, chairman of the Fayette County Soil and Water Conservation District, accepted the award on behalf of the local district during the federation's 33rd annual meeting in Columbus held Jan. 13-15.

The Fayette County district is governed by Agle, chairman; Richard Carson, vice chairman; William Dunn, secretary; James Waddle, fiscal agent, and John Peterson, education chairman, who are elected locally and have the responsibility of determining the kinds and extent of technical services and educational activities carried out in the district.

Soil and Water Conservation District employees Vincent Chrisman, district

aide, and Mrs. Barbara Garringer, district secretary; Soil Conservation Service employees Lee Cleland and Leonard Watts and Fayette County Agricultural Extension agent John Gruber assist the district supervisors in providing technical conservation planning assistance and conservation education programs to county residents, units of government, and local organizations.

All of Ohio's 88 districts participated in the contest with 71 receiving superior ratings; 14 ranking as excellent and three receiving good ratings. The program is designed to permit yearly evaluations of the local program by supervisors.

College students to care for cattle

WILMINGTON — Farm management technology students at Southern State College will gain some first-hand experience in animal handling next week as they care for 85 head of bred Holstein heifers.

The heifers, all about seven months pregnant, will be lodged at Southern State College's north campus in Wilmington for eight days before being shipped to Tehran, Iran, where they have been purchased by private enterprises.

Dale Stokes, chairman of the agriculture department at Southern State College, said the heifers would be housed in a converted hangar on the old Clinton County Air Force Base, now the site of the north campus. Stokes explained that the facility was steam cleaned and disinfected and that federal veterinarians have approved the site for the housing of cattle.

Students will be responsible for feeding, bedding, and watering the cattle. After the heifers are shipped to Iran, students will break down the temporary holding pens and disinfect all equipment used in the improvised barn.

Stokes pointed out that the cattle will have been grouped, blood tested, and examined by veterinarians before being transported to Wilmington, insuring that only healthy cattle would be brought into the area.

Arrangements for the sale have been made by Schearbrook Farms of Dayton and American Agro Service of Lincoln, Neb. The cattle are scheduled to depart for Iran on Friday, Jan. 23.

Police grab cigarettes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland police said they arrested three men and a 16-year-old boy after stumbling on a van loaded with untaxed cigarettes worth up to $20,000.

Police said they were looking for a van believed used in the theft of citizen band radios Saturday when they moved in on the truck being unloaded at an East Side home.

Douglas Dorsett, 27, at whose home the cigarettes were being unloaded, was arrested, police said, along with Dorsett's father-in-law, Paul Palshook, 53, of Parma, and 40-year-old truck driver William Bartolotto of Brook Park.

The three were charged with possession of untaxed cigarettes.

Detectives said Bartolotto transported the cigarettes from North Carolina, where because of low state taxes they were worth only $14,000 on the retail market.

The cigarettes apparently were being sold to small retailers who could profit by escaping the Ohio taxes, police said.

Politics in State of Union?

NEW YORK (AP) — We may never be sure whether it was by design or by accident, but the President's State of the Union Message coincides with a spate of encouraging news about the economy.

Over the past few months, conditions have been gradually improving, and the public is aware of it. Strong retail sales in December were to a great extent an expression of returning confidence.

Wholesale prices actually fell in December. The prime interest rate is falling. It is now under 7 per cent and headed downward. The rate of inflation has tended to slow. More people are at work in recent weeks.

Economists are inclined to say that this is just how things were planned. Government economists especially will be inclined to take credit, claiming this was their script for the past year or more.

And, indeed, it is true that if you look back at the forecasts made a year ago you will see that many of them were right on the mark. Then you may recall, however, how lamentably inaccurate was their record in prior years.

It remains a question, therefore, whether the President can convince the people that the economy is responding solely to the perception and shrewd guidance of the Ford administration.

Regardless, Ford certainly can enjoy the results. The economic condition is better than it was six months ago, and it does show some signs of further improvement. Things are breaking for the President.

The real test still is ahead, however, and that is to keep the recovery on track. Strong as those economic signals might seem, there are weaknesses present, there are obstacles on the track.

One of these weaknesses is unemployment, and that can cost Ford many votes. Even under the best of conditions foreseen, few economists expect the jobless rate to get under 7.5 per cent for 1976.

This also could be a poor year for labor-management relations. A panel of labor authorities assembled by the Conference Board, a nonprofit research organization, foresees an increased number of strikes this year.

The inflation rate still is a danger. The Commerce Department expects prices to rise by about 6.5 per cent in 1976, compared with 7 per cent last year, and that is a rate not easily accepted by most people.

If we went through the worst decline in demand for products in many years and still didn't manage to overcome inflation, what will prices be like when demand increases, as we expect it to? Flashing red light!

One of the biggest tests for the President, economically and politically, is expected to come in May. The President believes an additional $10-billion tax cut and a $395-billion budget is needed to keep the economy on track.

Many members of Congress, which is now required to adopt its own budget resolution, including spending and deficit targets, disagree. They want a bigger budget; a bigger battle could ensue that could have direct bearing on election results.

Meanwhile, the President can bask in some of the most encouraging economic news we've seen in a long time.

Honey production up 6 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Honey production in 1975 totaled 197 million pounds, up 6 per cent from 1974, the Agriculture Department says in an annual review.

Although the number of bee colonies declined 1 per cent from 1974 to 4.2 million, officials said that honey output per colony rose to an average of 47.2 pounds from 44.1 in 1974.

Honey producers — owners of the colonies, not the bees — received an average of 50.6 cents per pound last year, almost matching the 1974 record of 51 cents, the department said.

Business community raps federal rule

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati business community is protesting new federal regulations it says will open the henhouse to the foxes.

The Greater Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce charged the "little known" federal regulations that could result in businesses unknowingly hiring convicted felons for sensitive positions.

The chamber, in a letter, asked the U.S. Department of Justice to postpone implementation of the regulations by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration prohibiting businesses from screening criminal records of prospective employees.

The chamber said police agencies will be forbidden to furnish firms and security agencies with criminal records and the chamber warned that "increased risks and actual losses are certain."

Chamber President William Liggett, who also heads the First National Bank of Cincinnati, said that the federal rules, set to become effective March 16, are "another hazard to effective business operation."

"There are many sensitive positions in business," Liggett wrote the Justice Department, President Ford and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, "including contract security, inhouse security, maintenance, credit, accounting, data processing, cashier and inventory."

"Nearly every position in a financial institution is sensitive. These regulations will enable individuals with criminal backgrounds to gain employment in high security positions."

"Increased risks and actual losses are certain. Businesses will bear these losses immediately and operating costs will rise."

"Ultimately, consumers will pay higher prices generated by these unwarranted restrictions."

Liggett charged the Justice Department "has not made a concerted effort to consider the opinions of businessmen throughout the nation concerning these regulations nor has the department attempted to communicate with many businessmen on this issue."

Liggett asked the effective date of the regulations be postponed until the Federal Privacy Protection Study Commission completes its recommendations for information systems and control in June, 1977.

"Of course the other side of the coin," said chamber spokesman Edward Wolking, "is, I'm sure, many businesses discriminate against people with criminal backgrounds."

"But this is not a federal law. It is a regulation being set up under the Administration."

Plant blast jury back in session

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Crucial testimony by the government's star witness in the Sponge Rubber Products arson trial was the center of attention today as a federal jury resumed its fourth day of deliberation.

The U.S. District Court jury had asked for a copy of the testimony by John W. Shaw of Pittsburgh, Pa. each day from Wednesday through Friday. Judge Jon O. Newman said he could not comply until it was completely transcribed during the weekend from the stonegrapher's courtroom copy.

One of the nine defendants was acquitted Wednesday shortly after the eight men and four women began deliberating but no verdicts were returned during the rest of the week.

"They're really confused," one defense attorney speculated Friday as lawyers, defendants and news reporters mingled outside the second-floor courtroom.

The jurors deliberate each day in a closed room one floor above the courtroom and observers can only guess their progress from their occasional, brief notes to the judge.

The jury originally asked for all of Shaw's testimony, which the cornerstone of the government's case against Charles M. Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, president of Sponge Rubber's parent firm, and the seven remaining defendants who allegedly carried out the arson.

It narrowed the request Friday to Shaw's account of activities inside the Shelton plant on March 1 when explosions turned the 2½-block-long building into an inferno, and later when six of the arsonists drove to New York City.

Shaw claims Moeller's friend and adviser, the Rev. David M. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn., admitted Shaw and cousins Michael J. and Dennis C. Tiche, both of Boyers, Pa., to the plant that afternoon and helped them place dynamite and gasoline throughout the plant. Shaw was indicted with the other nine men but pleaded guilty to reduced charges and testified against the others.

In the decade between 1830 and 1840, Ohio's chief city, Cincinnati, had a population of 46,338; Columbus 6,048, Cleveland 6,071 and Dayton 6,067.

100 YEARS YOUNG — Special birthday celebrations were held Sunday in the Court House Manor Nursing Home for John Gunnoe who became half as old as the nation. Mrs. Claribel Riegel, representing the governor's office, presented him with a plaque honoring the occasion and signed by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes. Gunnoe also received a letter of congratulations from President and Mrs. Ford. Five other birthdays were celebrated with music provided by Mrs. Dorothy Everhart.

Oil prices said help to peace

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Arab countries aren't robbing the world through increased oil prices, according to a Bowling Green State University professor who recently returned from Saudi Arabia.

Dr. Ivan E. Denbesten, instead, sees the higher oil prices as a possible solution to the Middle East problems.

Denbesten, a chemist who has spent the past two years teaching at the University of Petroleum and Minerals in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, said that because of the thriving economies of Arabian countries the "chances for permanent solutions" to problems in the Middle East are perhaps better now than ever.

Denbesten indicated that prosperity apparently is softening the traditionally inflexible attitude in Arab countries "which has hindered establishment of a lasting peace."

Denbesten disagrees with those who contend that oil prices being charged by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) are outrageously high.

"They're not robbing the world, even though that's a convenient stereotype for Americans to accept, and in many instances is used as an unjustifiable reason to increase the cost of a product," he said.

The chemistry professor, who returned to America in September, said that "the only major resource of most of these countries" is oil and that in light of inflation and price increases in other areas, the price hikes are necessary if the Arab countries are to compete in an inflated market for all of their purchases.

Old comic books proving to be good investment

CINCINNATI (AO) — "For investment, there's nothing that can beat an old comic book," said dealer Dave Belmont.

Some browsed and some bought the time-tattered pages.

It was Cincinnati's second annual comic book convention, the brainchild of Andy Voris, who got the idea four years ago when his 12-year-old son Cy began hoarding $20 comic books.

Belmont was among hundreds of collectors and dealers who Sunday attended the convention at a downtown hotel.

It isn't kids stuff. Belmont flew in because of bad weather, leaving at home in Rochester, N.Y., his station wagon stuffed with newer comics.

He brought along a comic-laden suitcase containing about 300 "golden age" — pre-1945 — comic books which he hoped to sell for $1,500.

Belmont, 27, is no newcomer in the business. He started selling comics when he was 10 as a hobby, but didn't discover the profit potential until 1972 when he sold $1,700 worth at a four-day convention in New York City.

He was in Cincinnati hoping to replenish his mail-order business stock. He hoped to leave with first editions of "Fantastic Four" and "Spiderman" and the 15th issue of "Amazing Fantasy," all published by "Marvel" in 1961-63.

"Today, Marvels are the most popular comics in the world. A youngster wanting to complete his collection must have those issues. I'll pay collector's prices — $40-$120 — because I'm low on them," Belmont said.

He wandered among tables of books ranging in price from 25 cents to $1,200 for a first edition of "Superman" published in 1939.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — James Arness, who for 20 years rode the TV range as Marshal Dillon in "Gunsmoke," returns to the tube tonight as a buckskin-clad frontiersman in a 2½-hour ABC movie, "The Macahans."

But when it ends it won't be the last of the Macahans. ABC says the show may be a series next fall. It says the show is based on the movie, "How the West Was Won," and may bear that title as a series.

If tonight's effort bears any resemblance to "How the West Was Won," I'll do a fan dance in Macy's window at high noon. But I digress.

This long, lumbering saga has Big Jim cast as Zeb Macahan, a Virginian who has been out West scouting, trapping and all that for 10 years. The plot centers on his efforts to help his brother (Richard Kiley) and brother's wife (Eva Marie Saint) to move their family West from their home near Bull Run, Va., just before the start of the Civil War.

But just before the trek begins, Easterners and Midwesterners will see something completely different — President Ford's State of the Union message, which the networks are carrying live at 9 p.m. EST.

ABC will stop "The Macahans" for Ford's speech and ensuing analyses of it, then resume the proceedings.

The show begins in March 1861 with Big Jim and an Indian lad he befriended a few years earlier riding through Western woods identified as the "Hunkapa Sioux Territory."

They see a fellow scout, played by Gene Evans, set upon by Indians who are fixing to skin him alive. Zeb intervenes and gets them to hand him over, explaining that the Army wants Evans for hanging purposes, as he has fomented Indian uprisings that have cost lives.

He turns the baddie in to Fort Laramie authorities, then says he's going back to Virginia to visit the Macahans who stayed there. Cut to "Northeastern Virginia, April, 1861" and his arrival there.

Miss Saint, who in the show has four teen-agers — two boys and two girls — distrusts Zeb, calling him "a drifter, a gambler and a pagan." But Civil War clouds are looming, her husband wants to try his luck out West anyway, and off they go, Zeb having reluctantly agreed to escort them.

The journey is long and arduous, but nowhere as long and arduous as the rest of the show, which gets Zeb & Co. only as far as temporary quarters in Nebraska — a sod hut — before grinding to a halt.

This Civil War-era show could be called "Davey Crockett and The Waltons Set up a Little House on the Prairie Under a Grant Made Possible by Lee." It certainly has lots of story angles for a series. But I wish they hadn't tried to squeeze all of them into tonight's program. It makes the thing a 2½-hour epic in bloat.

In 1826 the only newspaper in Cleveland, Ohio was the Herald. Later, one of its competitors, the Advertiser, was purchased in 1841 by two Vermont men who changed the name to the Plain Dealer.

Steelers take NFL title fundamentally

Super Bowl anything but dull

MIAMI (AP) — They sawed off the shotgun. They out-muscled the flex. They did everything that it takes to make for good, basic, dull football — and it was anything but dull.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, for the second straight year the greatest team in professional football, dealt the wild-card Cowboys of Dallas a fistful of fundamentals Sunday and came away with a 21-17 victory in what was easily the most thrilling Super Bowl game yet played.

And having carved an X on the bad rap these National Football League extravaganzas have carried since their inception, the Steelers immediately began thinking about carving a special niche of their own in the record books by winning a third title in a row.

The Cowboys, with quarterback Roger Staubach passing out of a deep-set shotgun offense and a "flex" defense designed to consternate Pittsburgh, had added a few new wrinkles to this game. But for all their efforts, all they got were furrowed brows. It was blocking and tackling — all there really is to football, when you get down to it — that made the difference.

"I'm a big deal today — but tomorrow we start working for Super Bowl XI," said Reggie Harrison, the bemused, almost embarrassed Steeler whose fourth-quarter blocked punt produced a safety and started Pittsburgh working in earnest toward the triumph in Super Bowl X.

"I think we'll be enjoying this one a lot more than the last one," added running back Franco Harris, a star in the Steelers' Super Bowl IX victory over Minnesota but little more than a bit-part player in this one. "We're No. 1 two times in a row and there's not too many teams that can say that. Now it'll be nice to try for No. 3 — and no team can say that yet."

Two was hard to come by. The game was a relatively even one statistically, but those are only cold numbers on a chart. On the field it was as uneven as a manic-depressive, first raising the Cowboys hopes, then dashing them, then doing the same to the Steelers' emotions.

The tempo crashed back and forth, bouncing as crazily as the football that careened into and out of the Dallas end zone after Harrison had collided with it in mid-air, jawbone to pigskin.

It was the Cowboys who got on the scoreboard first. They stamped into Pittsburgh punter Bobby Walden as he juggled the ball. In one play, a 29-yard touchdown pass from Roger Staubach to a shockingly wide-open Drew Pearson, Dallas bashed a gaping hole in the aura of Pittsburgh's Steel Curtain invincibility, becoming the first team all season to score a first-quarter touchdown against the Steelers.

Was this, then, to be the first tolling of the bell that would ring down that curtain?

It took Pittsburgh less than 4½ minutes to dispel those fears, tying the game on a touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw to an equally wide-open Randy Grossman.

From then until the fourth minute of the fourth period, it was a war of attrition, a series of missed opportunities. Toni Fritsch kicked a 36-yard field goal 15 seconds into the second period, putting Dallas on top again 10-7. He might have had a shot at another three-pointer later in the period if Pittsburgh's defense hadn't flexed its own muscles, turning a second-and-10 situation on the Pittsburgh 23 into a fourth-and-35 by creaming Staubach on successive pass attempts.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh was blowing some chances of its own, but doing it more blatantly, compliments of place-kicker Roy Gerela's inaccurate right foot. He lined a 36-yard try of his own to the left of the luminescent yellow-green uprights in the final minute of the second period, then repeated his act of futility about a third of the way into the third quarter by hooking a 33-yarder.

He had a pretty good excuse, though, for his lack of marksmanship. It seems he was nursing a broken rib. He busted it on the first play of the game by knocking Dallas' Tom Henderson out of bounds, preventing the razzle-dazzle reverse runback from the Super Bowl's first kickoff returned for a touchdown.

So into the fourth quarter these two teams went, the Steelers pounding away at Dallas and coming up empty; the Cowboys cracking away at Pittsburgh and holding, ever so tenuously, their three-point lead.

Something had to give. Something did. It was, of all things, the Cowboys' punting unit. And what had been an intense, fierce, frustrating game of near-misses became a rollercoaster of scoring, changing the numbers on the scoreboard almost as quickly as the numbers on the big board in the stock exchange.

Harrison, a 1974 midseason acquisition by Pittsburgh after the St. Louis Cardinals cut him adrift, came through the line like a locomotive at full throttle and met the football face first, an instant after punter Mitch Hoopes' foot hit the ball.

"I think I got it with my mouth," he said later, impishly displaying a tongue with a gash up the middle. "I thought I had it with my arm, but after the block I turned around and spat and got nothing but blood, so I guess I took it in the face."

It seemed impossible to some that Harrison wouldn't know where he'd been hit. It was even more incredible that he didn't know how much impact his play had.

He didn't think much about the block itself, either. Both coaches — Chuck Noll of Pittsburgh and Tom Landry of Dallas — and plenty of players on both sides said it was the turning point, the instant the Steelers began smelling blood.

"I don't think it was so important. Heck, there were some really big plays," he said, referring to a Mike Wagner interception that helped the Steelers pad their lead and a 64-yard Lynn Swann touchdown catch that put the game away.

"Those were the big ones. Mine was just lucky. I'd never take credit for winning the game, for doing something as big as that."

With 1:22 to work with, Staubach got the Cowboys from their own 39 to the Pittsburgh 38. Now there were 20 seconds to go and counting. An incompletion stopped the clock at 12. Another stoppage at three. And on a wing-and-a-prayer pass into the logjammed end zone, safety Glen Edwards got to the ball for an interception and Pittsburgh got the game for the title.

Blue Lions come back to top Jackson in non-league debut

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

JACKSON — Fighting back from a 14-point first half deficit, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions clawed their way to a 66-61 victory over the Jackson Ironmen Saturday night.

Sophomore sensation John Denen and senior star Doug Phillips paved the way to the win as Phillips rammed home 21 points and Denen tossed in 16 tallies. Denen equalled a school record by pulling down 21 rebounds in the game and Phillips came down with 10 caroms. Denen practically surpassed the entire Jackson team, as they only had 27 combines.

Jackson jumped on top early with six quick points from Tom Osborne before Washington scored on a shot by Dee Hart Foster to make the score 6-2. The Ironmen got three more points to take the lead at 9-2 before Denen showed some heroics with six points and the lead was shaved to 71-14 at the end of the first quarter.

For the first five minutes of the second quarter, the game belonged to Jackson. During that stretch, they outscored the Lions 16-5 and built up a 33-19 lead. Seemingly down and out, the Lions did not allow the Ironmen another point until midway through the third quarter.

At the end of the second period, points by Sam McLendon, Scott Sefton, and Phillips made the score 33-26 at halftime.

After intermission, the Lions scored ten unanswered points, six by Phillips and two each by Denen and Chuck Byrd, to give the Lions the lead at 36-33. During a seven minute period, the Lions outscored Jackson 17-0. The Ironmen took back the lead at the end of the period with six straight points and led 47-46 going into the final quarter.

The battle seesawed until Court House put together seven consecutive points to take the lead at 58-54. The teams then traded baskets for two minutes until the score read 62-59 with one minute to go. For the second night in a row, Denen calmly sank two free throws to ice the game. Byrd added the last three points and the Lions won their second game in as many nights, 66-61.

In addition to Phillips and Denen, Byrd also cracked the double figure barrier with 15 counters. Jackson landed three players in the double figure bracket. Jeff Conroy tossed in 18 points while Osborne and Jim McDonald added 17 and 12 points, respectively.

The key to the Lions win was the way that they controlled both the offensive and defensive boards as they out-rebounded Jackson 52-27.

The shooting percentages were nearly even with Court House getting six more field goals than Jackson. The Lions shot 26 for 62 for a 41.0 average while the Ironmen hit on 20 of 45 shots for a 44.4 per cent average. At the foul line the men of iron had the edge, sinking 21 of 33 shots while Washington made 14 of 21 charity tosses.

The Lions next game will be Tuesday night against Chillicothe at the CHS gym. Next Friday, they return home to meet Unioto.

An open letter from Sparky

Reds manager optimistic for '76

By SPARKY ANDERSON
Manager, Cincinnati Reds

I'm always eager to get to spring training, but I'm really going to enjoy it this year. I just want to get to Tampa and drive back and forth past our camp so I can read that sign that says "World Champs."

Johnny Bench has called our camp "Stalag 17" in the past. Wait till he sees how we're going to operate this spring. He'll be calling it worse than that. It's tough enough to go all the way and win a World Series, but I know it's even more of a job to keep that title. All of our players are going to be made aware of that quickly.

"...I like to see a club that's a little arrogant."

But if we're the club we say we are, we can go down there and get ourselves ready to prove it. We'll have a flair, an arrogance about us when we go on the field. I like to see a club that's a little arrogant. But you have to be sure you can back it up.

Just think how much fun I'm going to have making out a lineup card when I can write in the names of three MVP winners every day. That's some kind of feeling to know you've got people like Joe Morgan (1975 MVP), Pete Rose (1973 MVP) and Bench (1970 and 1972 MVP) going for you. And they've got the Big Dog, Tony Perez, right in there with them.

We've got some good looking kids coming to our camp, but I'll tell you, they're really going to have to play some baseball to push anybody out of our regular lineup.

Winning the MVP award should make Joe very conscious of how much this club depends on him. He's a real leader on this team and he has to maintain that, which I know he will.

It'll be a big plus for Pete to be able to work all spring at third base. He had to jump right into it during the season last year and that's tough to do. Now he'll be more familiar with third base. This is a new challenge for Pete and challenge is his way of life. He won't allow himself to give less than his best.

I know Bench is looking forward to spring training and the prospect of playing without all the pain that he had last year. Johnny played with an extreme handicap after he banged up his shoulder. He had a fine year, considering what he went through. Now that operation should have him straightened out again.

One of the problems we have is finding a way to get Danny Driessen into the lineup more often. He's going to be a fine hitter, but he has to get in there and play. I'll probably use him more at first base and give Tony more rest. I know Tony will drive in about as many runs playing 130 games as he will playing 150, because he'll be stronger. But Danny is going to be playing some in the outfield, too.

Davey Concepcion fell off a little last year. There is no question that he's the best shortstop in the business, but he hasn't completely proven it to the baseball world because he doesn't totally drive all the way. When he starts driving like Morgan and Rose, there will be no stopping him.

Our starting outfielders really established themselves last summer. George Foster got his confidence when left field opened up for him and he got a chance to play every day. He should be a solid .280-plus hitter with power.

I was really pleased with Cesar Geronimo's defense. I know he didn't hit as much as the year before, but I'm not concerned with his offense. His defense more than makes up for that.

Ken Griffey showed great improvement. He has the tools to be the best of all of them if he commits himself to it. He realizes now he can do it. He has to cut down his strikeouts and use his speed better.

There's going to be a real battle for the other spots on our roster. Not only do we have some talented youngsters, but we helped ourselves by getting a couple of fellows like Mike Lee and Bob Bailey to go with the veterans we had already.

There is one thing that will be no different this spring than in the past. Our main objective and our main concern every spring is to come out of spring training with the right pitchers.

Some baseball people like to downgrade our starting pitching, but I'm not concerned about that. We got some fine pitching last summer and I know we'll be even stronger this season.

For one thing, we'll have Don Gullett for the whole season and that will be a tremendous thing for us. Don was having a super season when he got hit by that line drive and broke his thumb. He sat out two months and still won 15 games.

Gary Nolan will definitely be much better in 1976. He did a good job, but he wasn't 100 per cent last year. We knew he wouldn't be after virtually not pitching for two years with that shoulder problem. But what a comeback he made to win 15 games. Gary will be a much better pitcher just from having gone through that and pitching a full season.

Jack Billingham had some problems last year, but

during the World Series he looked like the old Billingham to me and that's plenty good. He was throwing with more velocity and with a better curve ball than he had all season.

Fred Norman, Pat Darcy and Tom Carroll all did some good pitching for us last year and they'll all be in the scramble for a starting job again this year.

We've got some young pitchers that I really want to take a good look at early in spring training. Look at the way Rawly Eastwick and Will McEnaney came along to establish themselves as our 1-2 punch in the bullpen. Pedro Borbon gives me another good arm down there, but we could have a few new faces on the pitching staff. That could be the biggest change in our team.

Fellows like Pat Zachry, Santo Alcala, Tommy Hume, Larry Payne, Manuel Sarmiento and Raul Ferreyra will all be coming right out of the winter leagues, so they should be ready to show me what they can do.

LION IN CONTROL — Washington C.H. guard Chuck Byrd seems to be taunting a Jackson defender with his ball-handling skill in Saturday's game on the Ironmen's home

Eastwick finds solace in art

AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Over the years, Cincinnati Reds pitchers have been a colorful lot.

Bookworm Jim Brosnan wrote novels and quoted philosophers. Trigger tempered Joe Nuxhall mugged water coolers, kicked down doors and scattered food on the lockerroom floor. Pedro Borbon has been known to put the bite on batters—literally.

Move over boys. Make room for an artist. A real one.

Rawly Eastwick, with looks to land him a Hollywood part, finds solace away from the baseball park by working with easel and canvas.

The 25-year-old curly-haired righthander vaulted into prominence last fall by winning two World Series games and saving another after leading the National League with 22 saves.

He has quietly celebrated his newfound fame painting works for friends.

"It's something I've enjoyed since I was a kid. My mother is an artist and so is my brother," said Eastwick, who admits he wasn't prepared for the crush of attention.

"There for a while the phone rang off the hook. I had calls from girls all over the country. They thought that since we fly everywhere I could just drop in and see them," he said. "Others told me they didn't want me depressed over the home run I gave up to Bernie Carbo in the sixth game at Boston."

Painting provides a quiet retreat from the bright lights. "It relaxes me," said the 6-foot-3 native of Haddonfield, N.J. who hopes to stage an art exhibit in a year.

He paints for friends rather than profit. "I've given away most everything I paint," he said. Team-mate Johnny Bench and his wife Vickie received a large still of a vase and fruit for their wedding.

"I like to put symbolism in my paintings," said Eastwick, who in his first full big league season established himself as a top bullpen specialist.

"I'm an expressionist. An impressionist sees something and then paints it. An expressionist takes something in his mind and puts it on canvas.

"Right now I'm working on a modern experiment for Will McEnaney. It shows a guy in sun glasses with a rainbow going through his head. It symbolizes freedom and will is something of a free spirit," he said, with a laugh. McEnaney, a bullpen colleague with the Reds, got his eccentric reputation while in the minor leagues, where one of his favorite gigs, walking an imaginary dog on a leash, drew a rebuke from the team manager.

"I also do landscapes, abstracts and charcoal sketches. I like to tell a story or get a message across. It's relaxing to let your feelings emerge with symbols," he said.

Eastwick's 2.60 earned run average was third-best on the team behind starter Don Gullett and fellow reliever McEnaney. It developed so impressively that the Reds' front office traded away veteran righthander Clay Carroll, the busiest pitcher in Cincinnati history.

Eastwick, Cincinnati's No. 3 draft choice in 1969, considered the trade of Carroll a vote of confidence and vows he won't take a complacent attitude into the coming season.

"1976 is an important year for me. I can't lay down and expect to do well. I've got to keep my feet on the ground," he said.

Ex-Panther mentor takes head coach job

MONTGOMERY, W. VA. — Roy Lucas, the only coach in Miami Trace football history to post a perfect 10-0 record, has been named head football coach at West Virginia Tech.

He guided the Panthers to their best record ever in 1971 and he will succeed Charlie Cobb, who resigned the post earlier this year.

Lucas, brother of former All-Pro basketball star Jerry Lucas, comes to Tech from Morehead State University in Kentucky, where he has coached since 1972. While at Morehead, Lucas coached all phases of the game, including offensive line coach in 1972, offensive coordinator and offensive backfield coach in 1973-74, and the defensive line and linebacker coach in 1975. Lucas was also a recruiting coordinator, working in areas around northern Kentucky and southern Ohio.

Lucas began his coaching career at Lloyd High School in Erlanger, Ky. where, under head coach Jack Turner, Lloyd High was state champions in 1965. In 1966 Lucas was named head football coach at Lloyd High and coached the team to an overall 26-12 record from 1966-1970 before taking the job as head coach at Miami Trace High School in 1970. During his first year at Miami Trace, the team was 2-7 but the following year, they were 10-0.

Lucas comes to Tech a proven winner and is tabbed not only a great coach but an excellent teacher and a dedicated family man.

Lucas was queried on his plans for the Tech football program. "I like to throw the football a lot—usually out of the Pro-I formation—so the fans can look for a passing team. Defensively, we'll use a basic 50 defense," Lucas responded.

Tech Athletic Director Neal Baisi said, "We're most pleased for Roy to join our staff as he has the credentials to turn our football program around here at Tech."

Dr. Leonard C. Nelson, president of the college, said, "I am very pleased with the selection of Roy Lucas as our Head Football Coach. I am confident that he will successfully handle his new assignment here at Tech."

Lucas' wife, Beverly, also holds a master's degree in higher education and is currently teaching in the home economics department at Morehead State. She also was hostess for a statewide weekly educational television show in Kentucky. The Lucases are parents of two boys, Roy Jr., who is nine years old, and five-year-old Jerry.

MAC race grows into close contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Expectedly, Western Michigan and Miami share the Mid-American basketball lead. But Ohio University also unbeaten in the conference.

The Bobcats, predicted to finish eighth in the race this winter, are off to a 3-0 MAC start, a scant half of a game behind the leaders.

"What can I say," said Ohio Coach Dale Bandy of a harrowing 75-74 road victory over Ball State Saturday night.

"Three of my players make six free throws in the last 32 seconds away from home. And two of them are freshmen.

"I'm delighted. I feel fantastic. Until someone beats us, we're in this thing (the MAC race) all the way," said Bandy.

Jim Holstein, Ball State's mentor, became a Bobcat believer.

"Ohio gave us all kinds of matchup problems," he said. "We couldn't play our big men with all their small, quick men in the game."

Elsewhere Saturday, Western Michigan ran its unbeaten spell to 12 games, rolling by Northern Illinois 78-65; Miami slipped by dangerous Kent State 72-67. Bowling Green beat Eastern Michigan 71-68 and Toledo handled defending champion Central Michigan 73-59.

One of the unbeaten leaders is sure to fall this week. Ohio plays at Miami Saturday.

Darrell Hedric, Miami's coach, credited John Shoemaker's basket that snapped a 63-63 deadlock for keeping the Redskins unbeaten in the conference.

"It enabled us to go into our box stall," said Hedric, "and forced Kent out of its zone and into a foul situation."

Rex Hughes, his Kent State team down to 2-2 in the MAC, was blunt afterward. "We lacked patience in our offense. We took poor shots. We played hard enough to win, but we didn't play smart enough," he said.

The loss of second-leading scorer Cortez Brown with an ankle sprain this week damaged the Flashes. "We can't kid ourselves," said Hughes. "We're half a team without him."

Jeff Tyson put in 21 points and Jimmie Harvey 19 for Western Michigan, which ripped into a 78-60 lead at Northern Illinois to match Miami's 4-0 MAC mark. The Huskies, paced by No. 1 MAC-scorer Matt Hicks' 26 points, dropped their fourth straight conference start.

Ron Hammye almost went from hero to goat in the last seconds for Bowling Green, now fourth in the MAC at 3-2. Hammye scored a three-point play with 1½ minutes left for a 70-68 lead. Then he threw the ball away with 25 seconds to go. However, Eastern (0-4) couldn't capitalize.

"We had a super first half," said Eastern Michigan Coach Al Freund, "but we beat ourselves in the second half (the MAC race) all the way," said Hammye.

Mike Larsen and Dave Speicher scored 17 points apiece for Toledo (2-2), never seriously in trouble after forging a 16-point halftime lead. Leonard Drake had 20 for Central Michigan (1-3).

Elsewhere, 14th-ranked Cincinnati posted its 13th victory in 15 games, 76-61 over Wisconsin-Milwaukee. The Bearcats convinced losing Coach Bob Gottlieb. "No question Cincinnati is a great team," he said.

Johnny Davis, who had 21 points including two free throws with nine seconds left, gave Dayton a 67-64 verdict over Rollins. Xavier ran into 15th-rated Notre Dame's buzz saw 90-79, with All-American Adrian Dantley pouring in 35 for the Irish.

Purdue handed Ohio State its seventh straight loss 84-80. The Buckeyes (4-9), without injured 6-foot-10 Craig Taylor, return to Big Ten action tonight against visiting Illinois.

In the Ohio Conference, favored Wittenberg and Otterbein share the Southern Division lead at 3-0 while Heidelberg, despite a nonleague upset by Ohio Wesleyan, still paces the Northern Division at 3-0.

WCH reserves keep winning

Coach John Skinner's Lion reserve squad took their eighth win against just one loss by crushing the Jackson Jayvees, 57-42.

The Lions, drawing a pair of technical fouls in the third quarter, took their vengeance out on the Ironmen as they limited them to just four points in that period, all on free throws.

Tom Dean and Mark Burke again led the Lions in scoring with 16 and 12 points respectively. They got scoring help from Bruce Cupp and Mike Lamberson, who tallied eight each.

Richard Harless looked to be about all Jackson had to offer in the way of offense as he scored 21 points to lead all scorers. The closest point-getter to him on his team had five points.

The Lions will be looking to go 9-1 when they lock horns with the Cavalier reserves at Chillicothe and come back home to meet the Sherman Jayvees before the Lion-Unioto varsity clash Friday night.

The One-Minute Get Well. 36¢ or less.

Hello there stranger.

Why Jack, how are you?

The question is, how are you? Heard you won't be bowling for a while.

Yeah, I broke my thumb about two weeks ago. But I'm getting along.

You sound as ornery as ever.

Well, I don't think I could take on any of your team back there in Ohio, but next season... look out.

Right. Well, you take care and keep listening to your better half.

You bet. And thanks for calling.

A one-minute out-of-state long distance call can mean so much, and it costs so little.

After 5 pm, a one-minute out-of-state direct-dialed call is only 36¢ or less.

Why, compared to writing and sending a letter, it's faster, easier and so much more personal.

Of course, if you want to say more than get well, it's even a better bargain. Because each additional minute is less. Making a 10-minute visit as far as California just $2.70, plus tax—it's even less after 11 pm, all day Saturday and until 5 pm Sunday.

So keep our handy After-Five Calling Card handy. For saying get well. Or happy birthday. Or thank you. Or anything.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

Even the U.S. Postal Service can change its mind once in a while.

The perceptive postal patri-arch, in their infinite wisdom, announced the cancellation of the 1976 issue featuring a sheet of 32 stamps reproducing the entire Declaration of Independence — with each stamp showing a portion of the famed document, much like a jigsaw puzzle. If it had been issued, each stamp in the set could have been used for postage, which meant that one might have used a stamp depicting Ben Franklin's nose or John Hancock's left ear. The decision was reached in consultation with the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Nevertheless, of the 19 commemorative postal issuances scheduled for 1976, 14 will be in support of the Bicentennial and will include the big sheet of 50 featuring the flags of the 50 states in the Union. The five stamps not related to the Bicentennial celebration are: centennial of the telephone, 50th anniversary of the first contract airmail flights, chemistry, Nurse Clara Maas and a pair of Christmas stamps.

In connection with the new international postal rates going into effect Jan. 3, there are two new U.S. stamps. The 25-cent and 31-cent international airmails bear the same design showing a front view sketch of a plane with a world globe printed over the jet engines. The colors are red, blue and black.

The 1975 Child Welfare set of the Netherlands Antilles highlights children at play. One stamp shows children making a Curacao windmill with a collection of products in the background. Another stamp depicts a young girl making clay models. The third stamp illustrates children drawing pictures with some of their art work in the background. The additional values on this semipostal set go to the various children's welfare organizations in this little Dutch colony at the edge of South America.

The United Nations Postal Administration announced the issuance of four new definitives on Jan. 9 in denominations of 3 cents, 4 cents, 30 cents and 50 cents. The 3-center will show a collection of multicolored flags in the shape of a dove. The 4-cent stamp will portray a group of people of all races. The 30-cent adhesive features the United Nations flag. The 50-cent depicts a dove superimposed over a rainbow. Each stamp bears the U.N. symbol but only the 30-center carries the marginal inscriptions in the four official languages.

PHILA-TA-TES AND TRIVIA
... Women's hairstyles are featured on a new seven-value set from Ethiopia. Each stamp shows a different coiffure from various areas of that country ... The game of chess is master on a new set of stamps from Nicaragua. The stamps feature the history of chess from its beginnings in Persia and India to the present day. Included are a rare painting of Shakespeare and Ben Johnson playing the game, and a color photo of Fischer and Spassky at their famous Icelandic match ... The new U.S. 21-cent international airmail postal card carries an indicia depicting a representation of the Angel Gabriel as taken from an early American weather-vane of the 19th century. Maybe the angel is still waiting for his mail delivery — in vain?

They'll Do It Every Time

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Don't Worry About Extra Toes

Our daughter has two perfectly healthy children. The third child, born two months ago, has an extra toe on each foot. Our greatest concern is that this may mean that the baby will develop other abnormalities, too.

Mrs. H. B., Texas

Dear Mrs. B.:

The condition you describe is unusual, but not rare. This birth defect is known as "supernumerary digits." Actually, all this means is that the number of toes exceeds the normal number. This can occur on both the feet and the hands.

When the proper time comes, the extra digit (toe or finger) can be safely removed by surgery. The results are excellent. There are many surgeons who devote themselves almost exclusively to complicated hand and feet abnormalities.

Since there are no other evidences of birth defects you must rest assured that there is no likelihood that any additional problems will arise.

Children born with extra digits are operated on long before they are in contact with other children. Consequently, embarrassing situations are avoided.

Twice before I have had polyps removed from my nose. Now I've been told that more have grown in my nose. My nose is stopped and my sense of smell is almost gone. How can I be sure that they won't come back again if I have an operation now?

Mr. S. L., Ore.

Dear Mr. L.:

Nose polyps are grape-like swellings that grow on the inner lining of the nose. Frequently, there are also polyps that lie deep within the sinuses themselves.

All polyps in the nose are caused by infections of the nose and sinuses, allergies or a combination of both.

Herein lies the basis for your problem. It is inadequate to remove the polyps and not treat the basic underlying reason for their development.

Almost invariably patients become careless when the nasal blockage is removed following surgery and fail to continue treatment for the allergy or the infection. Consequently, polyps will again form and grow until the nose is blocked and uncomfortable.

The loss of smell is also caused by the same factors that produce the polyps. It is very difficult to speculate as to whether the sense of smell will return.

Retail sales off slightly, report shows

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University's center for business and economic research reports that retail sales in Ohio were off slightly during November by about 1 per cent after seasonal adjustments from October.

November sales were 5 per cent above levels for the same month in 1974 compared to October's 8 per cent year-to-year rise, the center reported. Retailers' sales were 3 per cent higher in the first 11 months of 1975 as compared with figures for the same period the year before.

The report said durable goods retailers generally fared best among the 16 kinds of businesses reporting November-to-November sales increases of the 25 retail lines covered by Ohio State indexes. Appliance stores sales rose 61 per cent, automobile dealers and lumber-building materials store sales were up 18 per cent each.

General stores with food reported increases of 51 per cent; service stations were up 11 per cent; shoe stores and drug stores, 8 per cent; and florists, 19 per cent.

The categories reporting substantial declines for the November-to-November period included fuel dealers, down 64 per cent and hay-feed, farm and garden stores, 25 per cent. Most clothing stores reported moderate declines, except department stores, whose sales were up 9 per cent over the previous November.

With the exception of Chillicothe (Ross County) where a 6 per cent decline was reported, all Ohio city-county areas surveyed by the center showed increased sales for the month over November 1974.

Across the state the increases ranged from 3 per cent in Cleveland (Cuyahoga), Youngstown (Mahoning), and Hamilton-Middletown (Butler), to 12 per cent in Dayton (Montgomery). In between were Canton (Stark), up 4 per cent; Cincinnati (Hamilton) and Portsmouth (Scioto), 8 per cent; Columbus (Franklin) and Akron (Summit), 9 per cent, and Toledo (Lucas), 11 per cent.

For the first 11 months of 1975 only two city-county areas, Chillicothe (Ross) and Cleveland (Cuyahoga) showed sales declines compared with the same period in 1974, down 3 per cent and less than 5 per cent respectively. Increases reported in the 11-month comparison were: Portsmouth (Scioto), fractional; Canton (Stark), Hamilton-Middletown (Butler) and Youngstown (Mahoning), 1 per cent; Akron (Summit) and Columbus (Franklin), 2 per cent; Cincinnati (Hamilton), 3 per cent; Dayton (Montgomery), 4 per cent, and Toledo (Lucas), 5 per cent.

Trustee OK bonding plan

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The board of trustees of Toledo University has authorized issuance of $4 million of general receipts bond anticipation notes to finance two main campus multi-level parking structures.

The board also adopted a new schedule of parking fees and basketball ticket prices for 1976-77.

Geauga County, Ohio, formed in 1805, takes its name from the Indian word for "raccoon."

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature.

Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now U. S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds mature in 5 years.

played the queen! The queen was a suit-preference signal asking West to lead a heart rather than a diamond at trick three.

Mrs. Jabes realized that her partner had the ace of hearts and, as she wanted to coax a club return at trick four, she shifted to the nine of hearts, pretending it was her highest heart.

Mrs. Robaudo took the ace, returned the jack of clubs, and Mrs. Hawes sadly went down one when West heartlessly scored the setting trick with the nine of trumps.

As if this were not enough bad luck on one deal, the American team was subjected to a second reverse at the other table where the bidding, with the U.S. sitting East-West, went:

North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Dble

The Italian South led the king of spades and shifted to the king and another diamond! North cashed the A-J to put the contract down one. Furthermore, South discarded a heart on the third round of diamonds and then got a heart ruff! So East went down two as a result of the snappy defense.

No wonder Italy won the ladies world championship that year!

You'd certainly want to be in four spades with the North-South hands, but when Mrs. Emma Jean Hawes of Fort Worth, Texas, got there she wound up going down one.

The deal occurred in the match between the U.S. and Italy during the Ladies Championship of the 1972 World Bridge Olympiad. Mrs. Jabes and Mrs. Robaudo cooperated beautifully on defense to insure Mrs. Hawes' downfall.

Mrs. Jabes led the king of clubs and continued with the ace, on which Mrs. Robaudo

Two burglaries investigated

Two burglaries, one discovered by a Washington C.H. police officer while on routine patrol, are presently under investigation by the city police department. Police also reported incidents involving criminal mischief,

Washington C.H. Police Sgt. Robert Massie noticed at 2:31 a.m. Monday the front window of the Thompson Transfer Co., 153 S. Hinde St., broken while on patrol. Further investigation showed the business had been burglarized and ransacked and a safe had been opened. Police stated there had been no money on the premises and believe the incident to have occurred anytime between 6 p.m. Sunday and the time of discovery.

A second burglary occurred sometime between 3:20 a.m. and 3:45 a.m. Monday at the Washington C.H. Eagles lodge, 320 Sycamore St. Police reported a window broken at the southwest corner of the building and the establishment entered. They have not yet determined what was taken.

A car belonging to Marvin J. Collins, 331 N. Fayette St., was damaged when struck with a log chain at 4:30 p.m. Sunday while parked in front of 532 W. Paint St. Police stated although the person responsible for the destruction is known to Collins, no charges have been filed. Damage was estimated at $50.

A citizen band radio antenna mounted on a car owned by Larry R. Conley, Columbus, was broken off while the auto was parked in the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union parking lot between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday. Police estimated damage at $25.

A tape player valued at $80 was stolen from a car belonging to Diane E. Polk, 916 Davis Court, sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday while the auto was parked at Washington Senior High School. Police are investigating.

The front plate glass window at Herb's Dry Cleaners, 222 E. Court St., was broken sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8:03 a.m. Saturday. Police reported the window may have been struck with a rock. They estimated the damage at $100.

Two drivers charged after rural mishaps

Two Fayette County men were charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for driving while intoxicated after they became involved in traffic mishaps over the weekend. Sheriff's deputies investigated a total of four accidents and Washington C. H. police reported one traffic mishap.

A car driven by Glen Ryan, 50, Bloomingburg, failed to negotiate a left curve on Ohio 38 near the Brown Street intersection at 6:20 p.m. Sunday and struck a fence owned by Walter C. Baker, 1179 Ohio 38-NE. Ryan was charged by sheriff's deputies with driving while intoxicated and reckless operation.

A car driven by Steven C. Tarbutton, 19, Brentwood Drive, struck a spruce tree belonging to Robert Kline, 476 Brentwood Drive, at 12:15 a.m. Sunday when Tarbutton lost control of his auto. He was not hurt, according to deputies.

A car driven by Howard Trimble, 26, Parrott-Station Road, traveled out of control on Creamer Road, three-tenths of a mile north of U. S. 35, at 8 a.m. Saturday and struck a Dayton Power and Light Co. utility pole. Trimble was charged with driving left of center and his car was severely damaged, deputies reported.

A car driven by John F. Hudnell, 28, U. S. 22, traveled across Ohio 41, near Miami Trace Road at 3:45 p.m. Friday and struck a dirt embankment. Sheriff's deputies charged Hudnell with driving while intoxicated and driving left of center. He was not injured.

A car driven by Ruth R. Clemmer, 74, of 820 E. Market St., struck a parked car owned by Donald Walston, 828 E. Market St., at 4:15 p.m. Saturday while traveling on E. Court Street near the North Street intersection. Washington C. H. police cited Ms. Clemmer for reckless operation. She told the investigating officer the sun was in her eyes. Damage was moderate to both vehicles, but no one was injured.

MT teachers vote to seek recognition by county board

Teachers in the Miami Trace School District have overwhelmingly agreed to seek recognition of the Miami Trace Association as the sole bargaining agent for Miami Trace teachers in negotiations with the Fayette County Board of Education.

Mrs. Frances Moore, MTA president, said the membership of the teachers association voted 103-2 in favor of a resolution citing recognition of the association as a bargaining agent as the top MTA priority. The MTA membership represents 72 per cent of the system's teachers, and the 103 members voting for the resolution constitutes 64 per cent of all teachers in the district, including those who are not MTA members.

In addition, 138 of the system's 160 teachers (86 per cent) have returned signed statements designating the MTA as their exclusive bargaining agent with the board of education.

Man being held in dual slaying

ROCKVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Benjamin Paul Woody, 27, Montezuma, is held in the Parke County jail here on $500,000 bond, charged in the slayings of a Rockville teacher and her 4-year-old son.

State police arrested Woody Saturday night. The bodies of Christine A. Norton, 26, and her son, Brett, were discovered in their home Jan. 10. They had been stabbed, police said.

Prosecutor Clelland J. Hanner said he will ask that a grand jury be convened this week to investigate the murders.

Flood insurance made available

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The National Flood Insurers Association announced that two more Ohio communities are eligible for low-cost flood insurance through the industry-government program.

Property owners in the villages of Mount Blanchard in Hancock County and Tuscarawas in Tuscarawas County can purchase flood insurance.

Since the MTA has only 115 members, several teachers who are not members are willing to allow the MTA to represent them.

Although representatives of the MTA had planned to attend Tuesday's board meeting to present their position to board members, the meeting was scheduled for 1:30 p.m., and teachers will be in class at that time.

They have decided to address the board of education at its meeting on Feb. 3.

Local firefighters answer two alarms

A car fire and a false alarm were reported by Washington C. H. firemen over the weekend.

The battery in a car belonging to Roy O. Sturgill, 423 Wilson St., shorted against the car body at 10:43 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of N. North and Paint streets. Firemen responded and disconnected the battery. They estimated damage at $100 to the wiring and the battery.

Employees at the Washington Lumber Co., 319 Broadway, moved the heat detector alarm at 7:39 a.m. Monday, accidentally setting it off. Firemen went to the scene and found no fire.

Arrests

POLICE
SATURDAY — Ruth R. Clemmer, 74, of 820 E. Market St., reckless operation.

SUNDAY — Robert N. Schiering, 19, CCC Highway-E, failure to obey traffic device; Larry Collins, 23, of 532 E. Paint St., private warrant for assault.

Moderating temperatures moved into Ohio today. Readings were as much as 20 degrees warmer than Sunday morning.

However, early morning readings continued chilly and ranged from single digit figures to the lower teens.

Brisk southerly winds in advance of a cold front will push afternoon temperatures into the 20s in the north and the upper 20s and lower 30s in the south.

Snow will begin in the northwestern counties by late morning or early afternoon and overspread the northeast by evening.

About two to three inches will fall in the northwest by evening.

Snow possibly changing or becoming mixed rain and snow will fall in the southwestern counties by late today and tonight.

The snow or rain will taper off to flurries tonight as a cold front advances through the state during the night.

Morning lows will drop into the teens and 20s and climb only into the 20s and the 30s on Tuesday as scattered snow flurries continue to fall Tuesday.

A look into the future indicates a few fair weather days are in prospect for about mid week.

Fair Wednesday through Friday. Highs from the upper 20s to mid 30s Wednesday, warming to the 30s and low 40s by Friday. Lows 15 to 25 Wednesday and in the 20s Thursday and Friday.
